NEW REBEL PIRATICAL SCHEME.

An Extensive Plot and its Frustration.

Concentration of Rebel Robbers at Havana.

Their Proposed Operations on the Pacific Coast.

PROBABLE ARREST OF THE PIRATES.

Narrow Escape of California and Pacific Steamers.

We have been in possession, for some time past, of highly interesting and important information derived from Havana, in regard to a proposed rebel plan for capturing American passenger steamers upon the Pacific ocean. Hitherto we have refrained from giving the facts publicity, lest a premature announcement should tend to defeat measures that had been taken to frustrate the plot, and arrest the parties thereto. Now that any danger of that sort is over, we are at liberty to show how narrowly we have escaped the necessity of recording another Roanoke affair, only on a larger scale, upon the waters of the Pacific.

The details of the plot in question were consummated at Havana some time since, under the approval of S. R. MALLORY, the Confederate Secretary of the Navy. Its leader and manager was THOMAS A. HOGG, holding a commission in the rebel navy as Master, who, with a party of from sixteen to twenty men, left Havana for Panama, New Grenada, the last of September or early in October, for the purpose of getting on board the Panama R. R. Co.'s fine steamer Guatemala, seizing her at sea, and then using her as a pirate vessel to capture steamers of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, plying between Panama and San Francisco. The party were all well armed, and abundantly supplied with ammunition concealed in their baggage. They were to take passage on the Guatemala for different central American ports, so as not to excite suspicion. HOGG was to go on board first, carrying his baggage, which was to contain nothing suspicious. If it was not searched, his followers were to convey on board their trunks subsequently, with the arms and ammunition concealed in them.

The seizure of the vessel was not to be attempted until she had got to a point upon the Central American coast, some two hundred miles from Panama, where there was no danger of falling in with a cruiser, or with any craft that could give notice of the change of command of the Guatemala when it had been effected. No serious difficulty was apprehended in taking possession of the Guatemala, as her officers were not likely to anticipate any danger, and were expected to be found entirely off their guard and without the means of resistance in their hands.

The Guatemala carries two guns for her own protection from privateers. Relying upon these for offensive purposes, the pirates then proposed to cruise for the passenger and specie-carrying steamers of the California trade, until they had captured at least one of them, with which, probably, they would have essayed a trip across the Pacific to East Indian waters, provided they could obtain the necessary coal by capture of some one of the colliers constantly engaged in carrying steamer-supplies of fuel to Central American ports, Panama, Acapulco, San Juan del Sur and San Francisco. Ultimately the conspirators hoped to follow up their success by proceeding, in the Guatemala, to the coast of Northern California, and there making a raid against BEN. HALLODAY's line of steamers, between San Francisco, Oregon and British Columbia.

Fortunately, the scheme was discovered by some means, and we presume information must have been sent direct from Havana to the Isthmus, in time to frustrate the execution, as we hear, on private authority from Panama, that the parties known to be implicated were all there and at Aspinwall, as late as the 4th of this month, and were known to the United States Consuls at both places, to the Commanders of the Panama Railroad Company's steamers, and to the United States Naval Commander in the port of Panama. It appears that the desperadoes arrived too late for the Guatemala—a portion of them having gone to Aspinwall via St. Thomas. The Guatemala sailed on the 25th of October. The next Panama Railroad steamer for Central American ports, was the Salvador, to sail on the 10th inst., and it was understood at Panama that the piratical party were to take passage in her. If they did so, they were promptly arrested after their arrival on board—every arrangement having been made for that purpose. Nothing can have prevented their capture, probably, unless the fact shall have leaked out at Panama that they were suspected; in which event, of course, they would not be likely to place themselves under the American flag, where their seizure would be free from international embarrassment.

Master HOGG, (sometimes called EGERTON,) we understand, is a native of Baltimore, who has lived some time in New-Orleans. His chief officer is a man named BRADSHAW, who claims to have once been a commander of the Guatemala. EDWARD J. NORVILLE, a native of Baltimore, but now of Mobile, is HOGG's Master; WILLIAM BLACK, of New-Orleans, is Purser; EDWARD SWAIN, of New-Orleans, Midshipman; THOMAS REYNOLDS, of New-Orleans, Master's Mate; JOHN HIDDLE, (alias SMITH,) is Engineer; TIMOTHY O'GRADY and GEORGE MARCH, of New-York, are Quartermasters; and among the crew are ROBERT LYONS, and men by the name of HIGGINS, STODDARD and SULLIVAN. We hope to hear, by the next arrival from the Isthmus, that all the above-named parties, and some whose names we have not given, are safe on board an American cruiser at Panama—unless, indeed, they arrive here in charge of United States officers, simultaneously with the announcement of their capture.

The Florida.

ARRIVAL OF HER OFFICERS IN WASHINGTON.

From the Washington Star, Nov. 16.

The steamer Daniel Webster, which arrived here this morning, from City Point, brought up from Point Lookout the officers of the pirate Florida, captured at the port of Bahia, Brazil. There are eleven of them, the following being a list of their names: R. S. Floyd, T. F. Hunter, and G. D. Bryan, Masters; Wm. Ahern, First Assistant Engineer; J. B. Brown, Second Assistant Engineer; T. Emory, Assistant Surgeon; T. K. Potter, First Lieutenant; S. G. Stone, Lieutenant; G. T. Sinclair and W. D. Hough, Midshipmen; W. S. Thompson, Chief Engineer.

These officers were all neatly dressed in new uniforms of Confederate gray cloth, and wore naval caps similar to those worn in the United States Navy. Nearly all of them wore "chin whiskers," of the pattern worn by the pirate SEMMES.

They appear to be a harum-skarum set, and talked noisily among themselves while they were being conveyed from the Sixth-street wharf to the Provost-Marshal's. All of them had gold watches, with large chains dangling from their vest pockets, and several displayed quite a profusion of jewelry, such as diamond pins, finger rings, &c., the proceeds of their piratical career. One of them carried under his arm a handsome mahogany writing desk, while several had huge meerchaum pipes, at which they puffed on their way. While on the pavement in front of the Provost-Marshal's, awaiting admission to the office, an apple woman passed on the opposite side of the street, when they hailed her and bought the contents of her basket, paying for the same in greenbacks, and at the same time exposing to view handfuls of silver and gold.

Master R. T. FLOYD, who is a tall, fine-looking man, wore long black hair, which almost reached his shoulders. His cap, unlike those of the other officers, was profusely trimmed with gold lace, which, however, was somewhat soiled.

The only distinction between the uniforms of these officers and those worn by the officers of the Confederate military service is, that the marks of rank of the former are worn on the shoulder instead of on the coat collar.

These prisoners were brought from Point Lookout under charge of a strong guard of the Veteran Reserve Corps, commanded by Lieut. M. S. ADAMS, who was instructed to keep a close watch over First Assistant Engineer AHERN and Midshipman W. D. HUGH, who are reported to be dangerous characters.

Assistant Surgeon EMORY is a native of Washington, and was born in the First Ward of this city, where his family resides at the present time. He is a young man, about 20 years of age and went South at the breaking out of the rebellion. Young EMORY is, we believe, a son of Gen. EMORY, of the United States Army.

With these prisoners is a man by the name of W. DULANEY, who says he is a citizen of Baltimore, but who was found on board the Florida at the time of her capture by the Wachusett. He claims not to be connected with the pirate.

The prisoners were all committed to the Old Capitol Prison by Col. INGRAHAM.

The crew of the Florida are all at Point Lookout, where they have been placed in confinement, and the vessel has been ordered to New-York.

FROM SHERIDAN'S ARMY.

The Enemy Feel Our Lines—Are Driven Back by the Cavalry—Capture of More Guns—Death of Col. Hull—The Casualties.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MIDDLE MILITARY DIVISION,
Saturday Night, Nov. 12, 1864.

The enemy pressed our whole front this morning, particularly on the right and left. On the right, no artillery was used—the enemy evidently fearing another disaster. On the right, the Second Ohio was first vigorously attacked while on picket duty. Gen. CUSTER drove the enemy several miles during the day. The enemy fought stubbornly, and kept the woods as much as possible to avoid charges. Nevertheless, several charges were made, in one of which the young and gallant Colonel (HULL, just promoted) of the Second New-York Cavalry was killed by a shot through the breast. He was in advance of his men when killed. There was also some skirmishing in the centre.

On the left, Gen. POWELL fought his division (the Second) splendidly. The fighting was heavier here than elsewhere. Toward night he charged the enemy in force, and drove them pell mell through Front Royal, capturing three guns, (all the enemy had,) ammunition, baggage-wagons, ambulances, &c., and one hundred and fifty prisoners—all from LONG's cavalry division. ROWE's division of rebel cavalry was in front of our right.

Annexed will be found a partial list of casualties. The whole loss of killed and wounded will probably not exceed fifty:

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

News from Port Royal—Major Mulford's Preparations for an Exchange of Prisoners Nearly Complete—Gen. Burnside Gone to the Front.

FORT MONROE, Wednesday, Nov. 16.

The steamer Saxon arrived here to-day from Port Royal, S. C. The captain reports having picked up, when fifty miles northeast of Hatteras, an abandoned schooner, named the Ringgold, hailing from Dennis, Mass., with all the sails gone and two feet of water in the hold.

The Saxon brings important dispatches from the flag-of-truce fleet off Port Royal, S. C. Lieut.-Col. J. E. MULFORD had nearly completed the arrangements necessary for the exchange, and the whole fleet was expecting to return North in a few days.

Maj.-Gen. BURNSIDE arrived here this morning in the mail boat Dictator, from Washington, and proceeded to the front.

Reported Death of Gen. Canby.

ST. LOUIS, Thursday, Nov. 17.

An officer just from Memphis says information believed to be correct had reached there, that Gen. CANBY died from the effect of his recent wound, while en route for New-Orleans, on the gunboat Cricket.

Gen. Canby's Death Contradicted.

WASHINGTON, Tursday, Nov. 17.

An official dispatch, dated New-Orleans, Nov. 12, received here, to-day, confirms the statement that Major-Gen. CANBY, while going up the White River, to direct matters in Arkansas, was fired upon by guerrillas and wounded in the upper part of the thigh. The wound is a severe and painful one, but fortunately not dangerous.

The dispatch says: "He arrived here safely this afternoon, and will receive the best care under Mrs. CANBY's superintendance. His mental faculties are entirely unafflicted, and with his admirable powers of endurance and strength of mind we hope he will be about in a few weeks. After he was wounded he consulted fully with Gen. REYNOLDS at the mouth of the White River, and it is confidently believed that this accident will in no way interfere with the direction of affairs in this division."

The Pennsylvania Militia.

HARRISBURGH, Thursday, Nov. 17.

Immediately upon the receipt of the intelligence of the proposed guerrilla raid into the Cumberland Valley, steps were taken by Gov. CURTIN for the organization of the militia forces of the border counties. Over 1,000 men have already been enrolled in Franklin and Adams Counties, and armed and equipped by the State authorities. No apprehension is now entertained of an incursion. Of twenty scouts sent by MOSBY into Pennsylvania, seven have been captured. The others are believed to have escaped to the other side of the Potomac.

The National Sailors' Fair, &c.

BOSTON, Thursday, Nov. 17.

The National Sailors' Fair has proved a great success. Up to the present, the receipts amount to $130,000. The fair will remain open some days longer.

Almost everybody is contributing something toward furnishing our soldiers in the field a good Thanksgiving dinner. The quantity of turkeys and other edibles forwarded will be immense.

Weather thick; slight rain. Thermometer 35°.

Wreck of the Ship Ocean Pearl.

BOSTON, Thursday, Nov. 17.

The ship Ocean Pearl, of Boston, from New-York for Lisbon, arrived at Tarragona, Oct. 27th. The Pilot anchored her, but before they could get a pratique to go inside the mole, a furious gale came on, which drove the ship ashore, where she became a total wreck. All hands were saved.

Death of Judge Pitman.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Thursday, Nov. 17.

FROM THE SOUTH.

THE CAPTURE OF THE "FLORIDA."

From the Richmond Examiner, Nov. 14.

The most popular hero in the Yankee country at this moment, not excepting SHERIDAN, is Capt. COLLINS, of the sloop-of-war Wachusetts. He has surprised and captured the Florida, Confederate steamship, while she was lying quietly in a neutral port, while "seventy of her men were known to be on shore, and the others, just returned from liberty, were asleep and half intoxicated." COLLINS, who had just arrived in report, held a consultation with his officers, and showed them how easy would be such a peculiarly Yankee exploit; to run suddenly into the unsuspecting Florida, take possession of her, and run out to sea with her, leaving the Emperor of Brazil to protest at his leisure.

It was true that the Florida was under the protection of the neutrality of Brazil; and her commander had no more thought of danger than if he had been in Southampton or in Cherbourg. But here was the very beauty of the case, in Yankee eyes: Brazil is not England; neither is it France; and the feat would be so easy, so bloodless, so complete, with a touch of fraud, too, and insolent disregard of the right of a weak nation, which would make the performance so peculiarly and exquisitely dear to the Yankee heart, that, in short, the officers in council could not resist the temptation. When the Alabama was in the harbor of Cherbourg, the captain of the Kearsarge knew he dared not molest her there; so he resolved, having first ascertained that he had heavier metal, and taken care to arm his ship with chain mail, to await her outside. COLLINS, of the Wachusetts, probably thought he could not encounter the Florida on fair terms. He saw his chance of striking her a cowardly blow by surprise, and seized it like a bold Yankee tar, as he is.

There is no part, no feature of this whole proceeding which does not enhance its value and virtue, as a whole, in the eyes of COLLINS' countrymen. It is a very complete and characteristic Yankee trick, made only the more delightful by the spectacle of the insulted Emperor of Brazil left indignantly remonstrating on the shore. Indeed, to heighten the charm of the whole affair, the New-York papers print at full length the Emperor's proclamation of neutrality made on occasion of this very war, and defining the privileges of belligerent vessels while in his harbors. Good, worthy man! Small account a Yankee makes of his proclamations! The New-York Herald remarks with a kind of grin,

"If in the multitude of nice legal points in relation to neutrality, we shall be found to have violated one, why, by and by, when the war is over, and the Florida is no longer of any account, we will make suitable reparation to Brazil." There is nothing, in fact, which could add a higher relish to this feat of naval warfare than the outcry it is sure to raise all over the world about the audacious insolence of the Yankees, and their contemptuous trampling upon the neutral rights of Brazil. The Yankee nation expects to be accused of all this, and will be charmed to own the soft impeachment. This suits them exactly, for it is only your strong, first-rate, conquering, bullying nations that can venture on such acts; and beside, if English Ministers make any noise about it, they can cite English example as a justification, and it is all the justification they need, or will look for.

They already begin to reckon up the doings of British naval commanders in a similar style—how one of them captured the United States frigate Essex in the harbor of Valparaiso; and another attacked the General Armstrong in the harbor of Fayal. It is true that on those occasions there was no surprise, no cowardly triumph over a handful of sleeping men in the absence of the crew; but the analogy is at least perfect in the disregard of neutral rights—and the neutral nations thus insulted by England (Chili and Portugal) were not her match, no more than Brazil is a match of the United States. Here is the grand point, the noble feature in the affair, which proves the Yankee nation to be worthy of its Anglo-Saxon ancestors. They both respect the rights of the strong, and trample upon those of the weak.

We may be very sure that Mr. SEWARD is already preparing his list of English cases and precedents, to (not excuse, for he scorns excuses, but) authorize this capture of the Florida, as well as any other atrocity his people may choose to commit by land or sea. If SHERIDAN leaves the Valley of Virginia a smoking desert of ashes, as the English papers complain with much virtuous indignation, Mr. SEWARD can say, Do you forget, how a few years ago, in 1842, your Generals did the very same thing in the Valley of Cabool, burning the crops and dwellings, and even cutting down the fruit trees? And as for respecting the rights of neutrals, wipe out of your own history the two transactions of Copenhagen, and the many times that your bullying fleet has occupied the Tagus' mouth in defiance of Portugal, and pointed its guns over the Piæus, in scorn of the Greeks, before you begin sanctimoniously to rebuke us.

Brazil will, of course, remonstrate; but unless she can interest in her cause the great maritime nations, her remonstrance will be wholly in vain. There has lately been a coolness between the Emperor and the English Government, and diplomatic relations were suspended. For that, and for other reasons, the protest from England, if any, will probably be rather cold and perfunctory, and easily answered by Mr. SEWARD. France and Brazil are on very friendly terms; yet there are considerations which may cause France also to be very cautious in stirring the matter too roughly. On the whole, we need not expect any serious trouble to grow out of it; the good ship Florida is lost; and our cruisers will have learned the lesson that they had better for the future avoid all ports except those of England and France, and their various colonies.

GOLD, STOCKS, BONDS AND PRODUCE.

HOW MUCH IT COSTS TO LIVE IN THE REBEL CAPITAL.

The following are the quotations of Saturday, Nov. 12, in Richmond: Eight per cent. coupon bonds due 1877, $118 and interest; eight per cent. coupon bonds, due 1873-75, $108@$109½ and interest; eight per cent. coupon bonds, due 1870, $103½ and interest; seven per cent. coupon bonds, $77½@$73 and interest; seven per cent. registered bonds, $66@$67 and interest; bonds of fifteen million loan, coupon, $130 and interest; bonds of the fifteen million loan, registered, $118@$120½ and interest; cotton interest bonds, $180, "flat;" guaranteed non-taxable bonds, $132@$133 and interest; guaranteed non-taxable bonds, with January coupons off, $108@$110; non-taxable certificates of indebtedness, $92@$93 and interest; four per cent. certificates, $71@$73.

A very large amount of Confederate securities changed hands at this sale, at the figures given above. After the sale, $67,000 long date Confederate eight per cent. coupon bonds were sold privately at $122 and interest.

STATE AND CITY BONDS.—Virginia Stock, $241 and interest; bonds issued recently in redemption of State Treasury notes, $165 and interest. A considerable amount of these notes has been redeemed by the issue of bonds for one-half of the amount presented for redemption and the exchange of Confederate notes for the other half. The Attorney-General has once decided that the whole amount offered must be redeemed by six per cent. bonds, which mode of redemption places the notes at sixty-five per cent. premium, that being the market value of the bonds which may be obtained at the Treasury in exchange for the State emissions.

The question has been raised, however, that parties who have accepted Confederate notes in part redemption of State Treasury notes, are entitled to bonds for the amount so exchanged under the decision referred to; and that the question is now under consideration by the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth.

THE SHARE LIST—Farmers' Bank stock, $175; Bank of Virginia, $134@$130; Traders' Bank, $149; Bank of Richmond, $99½; Merchants' Insurance Company, $56; Old Dominion Insurance Company, $56; Virginia Central Railroad, $122@$116, (closing rate;) Porcelain Company, $112½@$105; Union Manufacturing Company, $2,600; Old Dominion Trading Company, $1,770@$1,775; Richmond Importing and Exporting Company, $859.

SPECIE, &c.—Gold coin sold at $27¾@$28; silver coin at $27@$27½. (There have been private sales at lower figures.) Coupons of the non-taxable bonds, $8½ for one. There has recently been a more active demand for specie, which may be explained in part by the migrating mania pervading the Yankees in our midst.

MERCHANDISE.—In spite of all the drawbacks upon trade arising from inadequate transportation facilities and military exactions, business is comparatively active. Supplies of provisions are coming in more freely, and stocks are now generally larger than they have been for some time.

Flour continues scarce and high—the prevailing price for superfine being $350; for extra, $360 per barrel.

Corn meal is $55 per bushel; bacon, $10@$11 per pound.

We quote Cuba and Rio coffee at $12; Java, $15; brown sugar, $8 50@$10; crushed sugar, $11@$12.

RETAIL PRICES—The city markets are tolerably well supplied daily with meats, fish, vegetables, fruits, &c., and we are gratified to observe a downward tendency in the prices of various articles. The following were the prevailing rates at the Lower Market to-day:

FRESH MEATS—Beef, $3 50@$4; shins, $2; liver, $3 per pound; pork, $5; mutton and veal, $4; tripe, $2 @$2 50; pork sausage, $5.

MEATS, SALTED, &C.—Bacon hams, whole, $10; bacon hams, cut, $11; middling and shoulders, cut, $11; corned beef, $3 50; bologna sausage, $5.

FRESH FISH—Alewives, $1 each; catfish, large size, $1 each—in good supply; oysters, $33@$35 per gallon.

SALTED FISH—Shad, $7@$8 each; tailors, $5; trout, $2; herrings $15 per dozen.

POULTRY AND GAME—Chickens, $6@$8; ducks, $7@$10 each; geese, $12@15; turkeys, $25; hares, $5; squirrels, $3.

VEGETABLES—Cabbage, $2@$5; onions, $5 per quart; parsnips, $2 per bunch; pumpkins, $2@$3 each; sweet potatoes, $8 per peck; Irish potatoes, $5@$7 per peck; salsify, $1 per bunch; turnips, $3 per peck; radishes, $1 for ten; turnips and potatoes abundant; white beans, $4@$5 per quart.

FRUIT, &c.—Apples, $10@$12 per peck; lemons, $4 each; persimmons, $1 per quart; chestnuts, $3@$3 50 per quart; walnuts, $1 50; peanuts, $2; hickory nuts, $1.

SUNDRIES—Butter, $10@$12; lard, $12; eggs, $7@$8; corn meal, $15 per peck; boiled hominy, $2 50 per quart; dried apples, $2 per quart; dried peaches, $4; sweet milk, $3 per quart; cheese, $8 per pound.

The Indian War.

GEN. POPE'S REPORT.

The Army and Navy Gazette for this week publishes Gen. POPE's official report of the operations against the Indians. The document concludes thus:

The peace which will be made with Indians under the instructions I have given to Gens. SULLY and SIBLEY is based simply upon the understanding that the Indians on the one hand behave themselves and do not molest the whites, and on the other hand that the whites shall be made to deal fairly with the Indians and not molest them in any way. The military authorieties undertake to enforce good conduct on both sides, and will have the power, if not interfered with, to do so thoroughly. As such a peace involves neither annuities nor presents, and holds out no prospect in violating it except hostilities, it will probably be lasting. Hitherto it has been the practice to accompany every treaty of peace made by Indian agents with expensive presents of goods and supplies of various kinds, and the Indians naturally understand that these are given them as bribes to keep the peace, and because the whites are afraid of them, and course they observe such treaties only only as long as they find it convenient, or until they need a further supply of presents, (ammunition, goods, &c.) In fact, it has been for years a saying with the Sioux along the great mail route to California, that whenever they became poor, and needed blankets and powder and lead, they had only to go down to this great mail and emigrant route, and kill a few white people, and there would be another treaty of peace which would supply all their wants.

It is beyond question that such a system of treaty-making is, of all others, the most impolitic, whether negotiated with savage or civilized people, and leads in either case, to constant and increasing hostilities.

I intend settling a peace with Indians in this department to do away entirely with this system, which, aside from its effect in stimulating and encouraging breaches of treaties of peace, is always attended with fraud upon the Government and upon the Indians.

I shall send up in the Spring some companies of cavalry to make a cantonment for the Summer at some point on the lake, and to remain there until the last possible moment in the Autumn, with the view of drawing the various tribes of Indians to that point and furnishing them with facilities of trade during the Summer and Autumn. Such a cantonment, kept up for two or three seasons, will have a most benificial effect upon the Indians, as all whites, except authorized traders acting under the supervision of the military authorities, will be prohibited from going into that region.

It is proper to remark that extensive strata of excellent coal have been found at Fort Rice, one vein six feet thick. This coal-field extends toward the southwest, and it is supposed outcrops on the slopes of the Black Hills. How far north it extends is not yet known. The existence of this great coal-field half way between the great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains is a fact the value of which cannot well be over-estimated. Aside from furnishing fuel for the navigation of the Upper Missouri River, it is a controlling element in the location of a railroad across the great plains to the Pacific.

Its extent and character will soon be developed by the troops from Fort Rice and other points on the Missouri River.

I may state, finally, that the Government may safely dismiss all apprehensions of Indian wars in the Northwest. Small Indian raids there doubtless will be, as there always have been, for stealing horses, but no hostilities on any considerable scale are likely again to occur. A small force, such as is designated in this report, will be quite sufficient to protect the frontier and the emigration.

Gen. SULLY, commanding District of Iowa and the Indian expedition, Gen. SIBLEY, commanding District of Minnesota, and Gen. T. C. H. SMITH, commanding District of Wisconsin, are entitled to my warmest thanks for their valuable services and the cordial good feeling which they have manifested during their entire term of service in this department.

To Gen. SULLY, I particularly desire to invite the favorable consideration of the War Department. His arduous and distinguished services in organizing and conducting the Indian expedition and beating and dispersing the combined tribes of Indians in two considerable battles, at such remote points and in so difficult a country, and in thus bringing the Indians to the necessity of asking peace from the Government, entitle him to peculiar consideration, and make it proper for me to renew the application heretofore transmitted for his promotion. He has earned it fairly, and I trust and believe that the Government will not hesitate to confer it upon him.

To the reports of Gens. SULLY and SIBLEY and to those of their subordinate commanders, I refer for details of the various military operations herein sketched, and for a proper representation of the distinguished conduct of the several officers, and of the troops under their command. I cheerfully indorse their recommendations in behalf of the officers and soldiers in question.

I am, General, respectfully, your obedient servant.

JOHN POPE,
Major-General Commanding.

The rebel army is still concentrated in the vicinity of Florence. One corps—S. D. LEE's—is upon this side of the river: the remainder of the army remains comparatively quiet on the south side. The rebels have a good pontoon bridge from one shore to the other. The whole army is probably thirty thousand strong, embracing LEE's corps, 7,000; CHEATHAM's corps, 5,000; STEWART's corps, 7,000; DICK TAYLOR's corps, 6,000, and 5,000 cavalry. HOOD has also seventy pieces of artillery. Our cavalry—Gen. CROXTON's especially—has skirmishing every day with the enemy's cavalry, mostly in the neighborhood of Shoal Creek. The roads throughout that region of country are in a bad condition, on account of the recent rains, and wholly unsuited to military operations. This may for some time prevent anything very serious from taking place in this quarter. Besides, it is still a question as to whether the rebel demonstrations at Florence, like that at Johnsonville, is not a mere feint movement, and whether HOOD and BEAUREGARD do not design establishing themselves, if they can, at some point on the Mississippi river.

Sherman's Movement.

The Indianapolis Journal, of Tuesday last, says:

"We had a conversation yesterday with a gentleman who had just arrived in this city direct from Atlanta, having left there on Friday, Nov. 6.

Every arrangement had been made for a gigantic movement in some direction. One corps had already moved out of the city, and others were to follow, but had not done so up to the hour of his departure, in consequence of the illness of Gen. SHERMAN.

SHERMAN expresses the utmost indifference as to HOOD's movements, and says 'THOMAS has sufficient troops to attend to him and prevent his returning South.'

The officers and men of SHERMAN's army were never in better spirits or more confident of success. They regard this as the great movement of the war.

Most of our prisoners, heretofore confined at Andersonville, have been removed to Augusta, and as that place is directly in the line, SHERMAN will probably take it. They stand a good chance for a speedy release.

No private property in Atlanta had been burned or destroyed, nor was it expected that it would be.

From Atlanta to Augusta is 171 miles; from Augusta to Charleston 121 miles; to Savannah 136 miles. But, as our cotemporary remarks, 'the country is not difficult; no mountain ranges lie in the way to make transportation laborious, such as ROSECRANS met in Tennessee in his campaign against Chattanooga; no passes or defiles present easily defensible positions to an opposing force; the whole region both to the south and east is rich in food, and has been untouched by the war.'"

The Chicago Journal says: "A furloughed officer of SHERMAN's Staff states that he has been ordered, when his leave expires, to rejoin his command at Savannah. HOOD is said to be on the line of the Chattanooga and Atlanta Railroad. FORREST has not joined him, but is again moving toward Kentucky.,'

REBEL REPORTS.

SPECULATIONS ABOUT SHERMAN, FORREST AND HOOD.

HOOD AND SHERMAN.

From the Richmond Examiner, Nov. 14.

Although no exchange was permitted by the enemy on this side of the river, the picket at Petersburgh appears to have had better luck, and sends a brief summary of intelligence from the Yankee papers of the 10th. It is that species of news which is usually styled "very important, if true." According to this telegraphic summary of the New-York journals, SHERMAN has burned Atlanta, and marched for Charleston! SHERMAN was lately reported by those papers to have abandoned the pursuit of HOOD's raid into Tennessee, and returned to Atlanta with four corps of his army, the rest being left to guard Chattanooga and his communications with Nashville. Altogether, it may be supposed that he had twenty thousand men with him.

If, with this force, he has cut himself loose from his communications, and attempted to gain Charleston, four hundred miles distant, living on a hostile country by the way, he has undertaken a most extraordinary affair. It is a far cry to Lochow—but it is a further cry to Charleston. There are circumstances which render this news very suspicious. Telegraphic communication with SHERMAN does not exist, and it would be difficult to obtain intelligence from Atlanta. It is also improbable that he should have announced such a design through the New-York journals, even if he had determined upon it.

This news is very like a big Yankee lie, invented to cover up the fact that SHERMAN has really burnt Atlanta for the purpose of concentrating his whole force against HOOD. On the other hand, there are considerations which give color to the story. To burn Atlanta and retreat would be a deadly blow to Yankee pride; yet SHERMAN must come away from that useless place. He cannot keep his army idle there while HOOD marches into Tennessee. He may suppose that the forces under THOMAS, with the additions sent to him from Atlanta, are sufficient to hold HOOD in check; and that, all of HOOD's army having been withdrawn from the South, he would find nothing to oppose him on the road to Charleston, or to Wilmington, or to a junction with GRANT, wherever it may be designed.

Balancing both considerations we are still incredulous, but if it be true that SHERMAN is now attempting this prodigious design, we may safely predict that his march will lead him to the Paradise of Fools, and that his magnificent scheme will hereafter be reckoned

With all the grand deeds that never were done.
All the great books that never were written,
And all the good songs which never were sung.

Was this indeed the tremendous news of the New-York journals, which GRANT has thought proper to keep from us? Was this indeed the reason of the suppression of exchange during the last two days? Yet the suppression is certainly a fact, and is a curious fact, that it was attributed by many to the circumstance that there was something which the Yankees are trying to conceal from us as long as possible, out of consideration, doubtless, for our weak nerves.

The last papers they have permitted to pass through our lines are those of the 9th. In the usual course, we ought to have intelligence of two days later. But it is in vain that they have been offered the usual exchange for two days past; that our Richmond journals have been waved temptingly before their eyes at the point where exchanges are generally effected; pickets are prudent, reticent, inexorably dumb; and those awful Sibyline leaves, wherein we might read our fate, are pitilessly withheld from us. This is, perhaps, meant in kindness; yet they might as well let us know the worst—we are prepared for it.

THE LATEST.

From the Richmond Examiner, Nov. 14.

The Southern papers have very little of the movements of HOOD's army. The Montgomery Mail of the 7th has the following from a "Confederate Surgeon just down from Griffin, and a scout just from the Army of Tennessee:"

SHERMAN has returned to Atlanta with four corps, which, with the garrison left at that point, makes a total of five corps in and about that city.

HOOD is at Tuscumbia, confronted by THOMAS, and there are prospects of an engagement.

Fresh levies have recently been sent to Middle Tennessee, swelling the Yankee force to forty thousand, which enables SHERMAN to leave THOMAS in charge.

If these reports be true, we may expect an early advance upon Augusta or Macon.

There is a rumor of a fight between some of the Georgia State troops and a portion of SCHOFIELD's corps, near Stone Mountain, on last Wednesday. It is also reported that a raid is en route for Athens.

Gen. FORREST is still on the Tennessee with his batteries and his "horse marines," and we may expect at any time to hear of his gunboat operations.

TELEGRAPHIC REPORT.

MOBILE, via Selma, Alabama, Nov. 11.

The Tribune has received a letter from Tuscumbia, dated Nov. 4, which says:

The weather has been suddenly cold. Large supplies of clothing are arriving, to the great gratification of the army.

Our scouts report that 15,000 of the enemy had arrived at Decatur, evidently following our forces. On the 2d we shelled them at that place. There were only 3,000, and those we could have captured easily, but that was not the programme. We captured forty prisoners, and killed and wounded three or four hundred Yankee cavalry. They are numerous on the other side; but they exhibit no desire to dispute the passage of the modern Rubicon.

SHERMAN's troops are scattered as follows: The First Corps (Gen. OSTERHAUS') are at Atlanta, fifteen thousand at Chattanooga, five thousand at Bridgeport, some at Stephenson—how many it is not ascertained.

Gen. HOOD has been quite unwell for three days, but is now all right.

FROM TENNESSEE.

FORREST AT JOHNSONVILLE.

From the Richmond Examiner, Nov. 14.

The Georgia and Alabama papers have the following dispatch, announcing a splendid success by FORREST, which seems not to have been permitted to be telegraphed to the Richmond papers:

OPPOSITE JOHNSONVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 5,
VIA CORINTH, Nov. 7, 1864.

Major-Gen. FORREST, on the 4th inst. achieved another grand victory.

He placed a battery above Johnsonville, moved up his artillery from below, and caught at Johnsonville three gunboats, two transports and about twenty barges. He planted his batteries at night, and opened with eight pieces, and after an engagement of ten minutes the gunboats were set on fire and consumed.

The batteries then opened on the transports and barges, all of which were set on fire and destroyed.

The engagement was terrible. The enemy opened with forty howitzers from their fort and gunboats, but not a man quailed under the storm of shell. The cannoniers had their rammers shot in two, and their clothes and boots shot off.

Since last Sunday Gen. FORREST has captured and destroyed fourteen transports, four gun-boats, twenty barges, thirty-two pieces of artillery, over twenty thousand tons of freight, and over three millions dollars' worth of stores.

Our loss has been only ten men wounded

Johnsonville is still burning. The immense amount of freight on shore, covering several acres, will all be consumed, as it is now burning, and the enemy cannot extinguish it, as our batteries command the bank.

M. C. GALLAWAY.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The Examiner says editorially: "Our anticipations have been more than realized. Great as his achievements have been hitherto, he has surpassed them all by his recent exploits on land and water in the heart of Tennessee. We subjoin a copy of his official report:

NEAR JOHNSONVILLE, Nov. 5, 1864.

My forces, under Gens. CHALMERS and BUFORD, attacked Johnsonville yesterday evening, from the south side of the river, destroying the town and burning three gunboats, eleven steamers and fifteen barges; a portion of the latter laden with quartermaster's and commissary's stores. They also burned most of the stores on the landing and in the warehouses.

The expedition, thus far, has resulted in a loss to the enemy of four gunboats of eight guns each, fourteen steamboats, seventeen barges, and quartermaster's stores, estimated at from seventy-five to one hundred and twenty thousand tons.

The quantity burned on the wharf and in the buildings was immense. The fires are still raging.

N. B. FORREST, Major-General.

An official dispatch from Gen. BEAUREGARD to the Secretary of War gives a summary of the above report.

FORREST states that several gun-boats from Paducah had appeared, which he expected to capture.

BEAUREGARD'S OFFICIAL REPORT.

TUSCUMBIA, Ala., Nov. 8, 1864.

Gen. S. Cooper, Adjutant and Inspector-General:

Gen. FORREST reports that on the 5th inst. he was engaged fighting the enemy at Johnsonville, having already destroyed four gunboats, of eight guns each, fourteen steamers and twenty barges, with a large quantity of Quartermaster and commissary stores on the landing and in warehouses, estimated to be between seventy-five and one hundred thousand tons. Six gunboats were then appearing, which he hoped to capture or destroy.

G. T. BEAUREGARD.

DESCRIPTION OF JOHNSONVILLE.

Johnsonville is not laid down upon any map we have seen. We learn, however, that it is situated on the east bank of the Tennessee River, four miles above Reynoldsburgh, and is the terminus of the Northwestern Railroad, connecting Nashville with the river.

The town was named after ANDY JOHNSON, the black Republican candidate for Vice-President in the recent election.

He caused the railroad to be completed to enable the Yankee authorities to transport stores to Nashville in low stages of water in the Cumberland.

Since the completion of the road, Johnsonville has grown to be an important point, and for some time has been the depot for Yankee supplies, which were shipped thence to Nashville, Knoxville, Chattanooga or Atlanta, as desired.

The Missouri and Kansas Elections.

ST. LOUIS, Thursday, Nov. 17.

About half the counties of Missouri give LINCOLN nearly 20,000 majority on the home vote. The vote of the soldiers in the Sixth District will elect VAN HORN by from 200 to 500 majority. In the Fourth District it is not definitely settled whether BOYD, the present incubent, or KELSO, is elected. They are both radicals. All the other Union candidates except HOGAN, in this District, are elected.

Returns from Kansas indicate the election of CLARK to Congress by from 1,000 to 1,500 majority. CRAWFORD, for Governor, and the remainder of the State ticket, will receive from 3,000 to 4,000 on the same ticket. LANE will have a two-thirds majority on joint ballot in the Legislature.

Sinking of the Ram Switzerland.

CAIRO, Thursday, Nov. 17.

Three hundred and ninety bales of cotton passed here to-day for St. Louis, and two hundred and eighty-nine for Cincinnati.

Illness of Mr. Nicolay.

ST. LOUIS, Thursday, Nov. 17.

Mr. NICOLAY, the President's Secretary, is lying quite ill at the Lendell Hotel.

Total...........	$316,806,391	$9,358,821

The principal of the last-named 5 ℘ cent. Loan will also be paid off in January, so far as the bonds presented for redemption are found to have been regularly and rightfully assigned by the State of Texas, which the Government is advised was not done in some instances about the time of the rebellion.

The following is the official announcement of the prepayment of the foregoing interest on the Public Debt:

UNITED STATES TREASURY,
NEW-YORK, Nov. 17, 1864.

I am authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to anticipate the payment of the coupons maturing on the 1st of January next, on the Public Debt of the United States, and will be prepared to make such payment on and after the 18th inst. Blank schedules will be furnished upon application at the interest-desk of this office.

The interest on the registered bonds cannot be paid until the books of the Treasury are settled, and schedules prepared.

JOHN A. STEWART,
Assistant Treasurer of the United States.

The weakness in the Gold Room, which has been notable since the second day after the Presidential Election, caused a further decline this forenoon of ten per cent. The fall was rapid, and sales difficult to be made in large sums until the price fell below 220 ℘ cent., (the lowest being 218,) when a better demand, probably to fill outstanding short contracts, was manifested, and there was a reaction in the bidding to 224@223@222½ ℘ cent., the last-named figure being marked at 3 o'clock. The Room was filled with military rumors—or, more properly, surmises—by way of accounting for the continued decline in the market, but the real weight upon it, as noticed for several days past, appears to be the difficulty of sustaining the large speculative purchases made the first week or ten days in November, on the false calculation that the Presidential Election would put the price to 300 ℘ cent., or some other exaggerated figure beyond that point. The same calculation may have been indulged by certain operators on the Railway list, at the Stock Exchange, since the sympathy between the Gold Room and the Brokers' Board, for some days past has been quite marked, though not general, through the entire Share list. This Afternoon, as at yesterday's Second Board, there was a good demand for Stocks, at the reduced figures, particularly observable on Reading, Rock Island, Fort Wayne, Michigan Southern, and Northwest. There were also good buyers of Erie at 97 ℘ cent., and the Miscellaneous Shares partially improved.

The business in the Public Funds of the United States, especially the Gold-bearing Stocks, was again very large to-day, both at the Exchange Board and at the counters of the Money Brokers on the Wall-street. The 5-20 Bonds, of both issues, were firm, while there was a fractional decline from yesterday's extreme sales of the 6 ℘ cents of 1881. The 7-30 ℘ cents convertible into 1881s sold at 115 ℘ cent. Treasury Certificates 96½ ℘ cent.

At 4 o'clock the following quotations were made as compared with the same hour on Wednesday. The Railways rather heavy. Gold 221¾ ℘ cent. The Reading Annual Dividend, it is reported from Philadelphia, will be made 20 ℘ cent.:

Sales to-day 7,050 bbls., at $39 75@$40, cash, and regular for New Mess, closing at $40 25, cash, and $38@$38 50 for one year old Mess; $40 25 for Prime Mess; $38@$39 for Thin Mess, and $37@$37 50 for Prime; also $40 for Mess, and $41 for new Mess, deliverable all this month, ℘ bbl. Cut Meats continue in demand at 17c.@19c., for Shoulders; 18c.@21c. for Hams; sales, 150 pkgs. Bacon continues quiet. Lard is dull and much lower; sales, 1,500 tcs. and bbls. at 21½c.@23½c., and some extra lots at 23½c.@23¾c. Beef continues in demand at $19@$24 50 for Old and New Extra Mess; $14@$22 for Plain; sales, 900 bbls. Beef Hams are salable and firm; 467 bbls. sold at $28 ℘ bbl. Butter is less active and cheaper, closing at 42½c.@55c. for poor to choice State, and 32½c.@45c. for Western ℘ ℔. Cheese is inactive, lots at 15c.@24½c., the latter for very choice, ℘ ℔. The week's business in Butter and Cheese Messrs. M. W. STARIN & Co. review thus: "We have, with the majority of the trade, been for some length of time impressed with the belief that a heavy stock of fine Butter was held back in the dairy districts of this State, but a late and careful examination of the facts induces a very considerable modification of these views, and from the most reliable sources of information on the point, we are now forced to conclude that the actual amount of really fine grades of Butter will fall considerably below the average yield. The receipts of Butter have continued light for the season, of both State and Western, and but a small comparative stock is offering. The demand for the California market continues fairly active, at full prices. City trade and coastwise trade is good, and fine grades of Butter in small packages are not in sufficient supply for the more than ordinary demand. A moderate demand has prevailed for the English market, but the high market rates and fluctuations in sterling exchange has restricted the trade. The reports from the several English markets are of a more favorable character, and large amounts of Butter would be taken if the fluctuations in gold were not so heavy and constant. Good to fine grades of Western Butters are very scarce, with an active inquiry from packers. The market closes with great firmness, which is not materially affected by the variable and even changing gold quotations. We quote:

The market for Cheese has ruled dull and heavy during the week. The reports from the English markets are unfavorable, and we note a further decline. This fact, added to the decline in Gold and Sterling Exchange, has caused most of the shippers to withdraw from the market for the present. The demand for home consumption is quite limited. Stock is now rapidly accumulating, and at the close of the week's trade the tendency is to lower prices. Our quotations are nominal:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Rebel papers of the 15th announce Gen. Sherman's departure from Atlanta on the 12th. It is believed he would move upon Augusta via Macon and Milledgeville, destroying the railroads as he advanced. From Augusta the movement would be either upon Charleston or Savannah. The rebels are in a ferment over the new development.

We publish this morning the particulars of a villainous scheme, luckily already frustrated, for the capture and destruction of the steamers on the Pacific coast,] by a gang of piratical villains, who concocted the plot at Havana, under the instruction of the rebel Secretary of the Navy. The details of this affair are very interesting.

The Nashville correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, writing Nov. 12, says: "Atlanta is neither evacuated nor burned, nor is the railroad between Chattanooga and Atlanta at all destroyed. Hood's main army is at its old place, south of the Tennessee River, and scattered from Florence to Corinth, where it will be likely to remain for some time to come. He is very harmless where he is, and will probably not be troubled for some weeks."

The news that Gen. Sherman evacuated Atlanta on the 12th inst., reached Richmond on the afternoon of the 15th, and created much surprise and considerable comment on the part of the Richmond press, with respect to his intentions. Two hundred Irishmen, Federal soldiers, who were prisoners in the South, and have been in rebel custody over a year, becoming weary of their confinement, have joined the rebel army and been sent to Hood.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican calls attention to the fact that Capt. Collins, of the Wachusett, who seized the Florida, incurred the censure of the Government in 1862, for seizing the British schooner Mont Blanc, and taking her into Key West. At the time of seizure, the schooner was at anchor at Sand Cay, Bahama Banks, only one mile from shore.

The Louisville Journal, of Nov. 15, says: "Gen. Thomas' command has concentrated at Pulaski, Giles County, Tenn., which is a fine point for observation. The Fourth and Twenty-third Army Corps, and heavy details from other corps, give the gallant Thomas a most imposing army. Gen. Stanley is temporarily in command of the Department of the Cumberland. Gen. Howard, with the Army of the Tennessee, Slocum, with the Twentieth Corps, and 'headquarters' of Gen. Sherman, have folded their tents like Arabs, and silently stole away, and for the next fortnight will be carving history with their swords."

The steamer Saxon, from Port Royal, brings important dispatches from the flag-of-truce fleet off that port. Lt.-Col. Mulford had nearly completed the arrangements necessary for the exchange, and the whole fleet was expected to return North in a few days.

We learn from Fortress Monroe that Maj.-Gen. Burnside arrived there Wednesday morning, and immediately proceeded to the front.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Gold Room fell ten ⅌ cent. yesterday morning, but recovered about 4 ⅌ cent. of the decline. The whole decline, since the second day after the Presidential election, is 38@40 ⅌ cent. The market is generally weak, but the extreme fall to 218 ⅌ cent. brought forward buyers to fill outstanding contracts. Government Stocks were again active. The Railways lower.

Transactions in Produce and Merchandise, yesterday, were on a very limited scale, and prices generally lower, and quite irregular. The freight market was quiet.

The investigation in the case of Michael O'Brien, Walter Patterson, Ira Garadier, alias Garside, and George F. Coughlin, all arrested on the charge of having been extensively engaged lately in forging checks upon banks in this and other cities, was continued yesterday afternoon at the Tombs Police Court before Justice Dowling. Coughlin, the accomplice who turned State's evidence, was cross-examined at great length by Chas. S. Spencer, Esq., counsel for the prisoners. His examination was not concluded at the time the court adjourned. It will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning. The prosecution is represented by Orlando L. Stewart, Esq., First Assistant District Attorney.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen yesterday, a resolution by Alderman Hardy, authorizing the Mayor to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Policeman Newlett, was laid over. The Committee on Salaries and Officers were discharged from consideration of all the resolutions before them to increase salaries, and then action upon the papers was indefinitely postponed. The report of the committee on the cartmen's petition, laid over at the previous meeting, was taken up and adopted. It empowers the Street Commissioner to compel the removal of rails that obstruct general travel, and substitute the grooved rail, and also to have West-street regraded. The resolution to create a joint committee to examine into the Mayor's charges against the City Inspector was adopted. The Family Aid Fund Ordinance (No. 11,) appropriating $500,000, was passed, and the Board stood adjourned to 1 P. M. on Monday. The Councilmen had no quorum, and stand adjourned to 2 P. M. on Monday.

The prize of a splendid pair of quoits, presented by Mr. J. Dunning to the members of the "Normal Quoit Club," was won by Mr. W. H. Sharp, at the grounds corner of Astor-place and Broadway, yesterday afternoon. Twelve first-class "pitchers" contended for the prize.

Returns from 106 towns in New-Hampshire, of the vote on the question of calling a convention to alter the Constitution of the State, so as to enable soldiers to vote when absent in the service of the country, &c., give 12,210 for the convention to 4,700 against it. The convention is carried.

Gov. Seymour, at a late day, issues a proclamation for the observance of Thursday next, as a day of Thanksgiving.

How President Lincoln Stands the Test.

We envy not the feelings of any of the maligners of Mr. Lincoln, whose eyes fell upon that noble passage concerning the President, in the speech of Edward Everett, published by us yesterday. It may be safely said that no person in the country is better qualified to pronounce an intelligent and impartial judgment upon our public men than this retired statesman. His long and varied official life in other days, brought him into immediate personal contact with all the leading public characters both of this country and of England during the last generation. He has long since thoroughly learned the stuff of which public men are made. When such experience is associated with a philosophic judgment, a refined taste, a fidelity to truth, and a devoted patriotism, such as belong to Mr. Everett, surely his decided testimony to the intellectual capacity of the President, to his purity of purpose and magnanimity of spirit, ought to bring shame, if anything could, to all the little carpers and defamers.

But the testimony of this consummate observer, weighty as it is, simply tallies with what the "plain people" of the land had already declared. No better proof was ever afforded of that popular discernment, that unerring common sense founded on both intelligence and instinct, than the utter failure of all the abuse of Abraham Lincoln to deprive him of the popular confidence. It is a new and signal attestation of the capacity of the people for self-government. There is nothing in Mr. Lincoln's character to dazzle the popular imagination. Probably there never was a man with such tremendous trusts, who was so little indebted to manner or show for his hold upon the popular respect. He is at all points a matter-of-fact man, as thoroughly simple and unaffected in the most responsible of all earthly positions, as when a village lawyer. Mere strength of will sometimes contributes greatly to an ascendancy over the popular mind. Cromwell's popular power was owing largely to this, and so was Andrew Jackson's. But no public man has less of this self-assertion than Abraham Lincoln. It is a matter of utter indifference to him whether it his point that is carried or some other man's, if the public good is secured. It cost him no effort to take up with any policy that promises best, even though out of the line of his first conceptions. He has an immense influence with the people, but it does not come from any personal predominance at all. The great secret of it is, that he has identified himself, in his whole soul, with the great national cause of the people, and has served it with a faith never flagging, and a judgment sound and sure. The people have asked nothing more than that, being sure that the cause had a strength of its own which only needed to be thus administered to carry it, sooner or later, to a triumphant issue.

"The elements are so mixed up" in Mr. Lincoln, as to make him preëminently fit for the crisis. A towering intellect, had he possessed it, would have lifted him above the sympathies of the people; and it is in those sympathies that the cause of the Union finds its vital force. So, too, an overpowering will would, even if accompanied with the best intentions, have subjected the cause to artificial embarrassments and restraints, and probably have involved it in fatal complications. Mr. Lincoln has known when to be firm and when to be pliant. He has well understood, that in the conduct of such a mighty movement as this, while the ultimate aim must remain fixed, each successive stage brings with it new bearings, new duties and new methods. He has faithfully conformed to these, with no concern lest foolish or evil men might impugn his consistency. He was sufficiently sustained by his own sense of an absolute singleness of purpose. It is not only Mr. Lincoln's mental constitution that can adapt itself to the necessities of the day, but his heart as well. He is incapable of carrying bitterness. No man can be more free from those heart-burnings which enslave so many otherwise noble natures. While there is not a man in this country more resolved to fight the rebels to the last extremity, if need be, there is none who would more rejoice to welcome them back to the protection and all the equal privileges of the Constitution. It would be impossible to put a man in the Presidential Chair with whom a repentant rebellion would have less difficulty in dealing. His second term will prove his capacity as a pacificator, in a way the deceived Southern people now little expect. They will find themselves quite as much out of their reckoning in regard to this as they have long since found themselves in regard to his capacity to conduct the war which their leaders provoked.

The great body of those who opposed Mr. Lincoln at the last election, cannot help being conscious of his peculiar fitness for his position, in spite of the persistent efforts of their leaders to destroy confidence in him. That is the simple explanation of the exceeding cheerfulness with which the decision of the majority is accepted. The Democratic masses, however they may have voted, know that President Lincoln is neither the tyrant nor the imbecile their party managers have been, year after year, alleging him to be. They respect him and are ready to trust him. We have the faith to believe that he will yet find effective support from hundreds of thousands who did not give him their votes. We believe, too, that the Southern people themselves, in spite of all the revilings against Mr. Lincoln, with which they have so long been familiar, will yet, before the end comes, recognize his virtues as well as his capacities, and find in his manner of administering his second term of office, a new inducement for returning to constitutional rule. Of course, their leaders will, to the utmost, resist all such tendencies, but there is a limit to the power of their malevolence. To all honest natures among the Southern people, the personal merits as well as the official authority of President Lincoln, will yet "speak trumpet-tongued."

The Price of Gold.

We continue to receive rumors from Washington that the Government is about to take very summary measures to put down the market price of gold. We hope that, in the main, they are without foundation. Recent experience, one would suppose, would show the folly of attempting to regulate the price of this or any other article of traffic by forcible interference. Every attempt thus far made has only aggravated the evil it was designed to cure.

The Government can best check the tendency to inordinate speculation in gold by just and straightforward dealing with the commercial community. It requires a certain amount of gold to pay its own interest; this it should keep on hand. But any surplus which may be in its possession should be sold regularly and constantly, in open market, and to the highest bidder. Any attempt to dispose of it secretly, or by private arrangement, below the ruling market rates, only puts the difference into the pockets of the favored parties, destroys confidence in the justice of the Government, and, instead of preventing or checking gambling in gold, only makes that gambling unfair. Let it be understood that whenever the agents of the Government here have a million of gold more than it requires for its own use, that million will be sold in open market, and the Government will have done all it can do directly toward controlling its price.

There are other ways legitimate and proper for the Government to use, by which its influence can be exerted to the same end. Whatever it can do to increase the amount of exchange tends to reduce the price of gold. Every bale of cotton which it brings forward from the South has the same effect. A law was passed at the last session of Congress for the express purpose of procuring cotton from the rebel States,—but nothing practical has yet been done toward carrying it into effect. It has been reported that regulations have been devised and agents appointed for that purpose, but they do not seem to have accomplished anything, and, unless we are misinformed as to their character, they never will. It is well known that there are very large quantities of cotton in the rebel States perfectly accessible to private traders if they were allowed by our Government to get it; but thus far no facilities have been afforded for doing so.

If the Government will take up this matter practically, it can throw into market half a million bales of cotton within six months; and that will do more to bring down the price of gold, and to keep it down, than all the edicts it can issue against speculation, or all the efforts it may make to control speculation by direct interference of any kind.

Kentucky—We are rejoiced to observe the course pursued by the Louisville Journal since the decision of the country against the Presidential candidate for whom it labored so hard. It comes out manfully and boldly for the Administration and for the prosecution of the war. The Journal is a great power in Kentucky. In fact, in its sphere of circulation, it exercises an influence unequaled by any other newspaper in any part of the United States. The gallant State voted for Gen. McClellan by a majority of 25,000, but it is nevertheless a gallant State, and its position is always of the greatest interest to the entire country.

The Journal of Monday last had a leading article upon the result of the election, from which we extract the subjoined admirably loyal sentences:

> "Mr. Lincoln is now a majority candidate in all essentials, and most heartily do we beseech the high and mighty Ruler of the universe to direct and prosper all his consultations to the safety, the honor, and the welfare of the people, and the establishment of peace and happiness upon the best and surest foundations. It was from no factious opposition to the President that we opposed his reëlection. The unparalleled majority which he has received we accept as an evidence that the American people do not fear his policy as tending to the subversion of constitutional liberties, and we shall look to the future of his career with hope. The bitter rancor which has been excited, will, we trust, be allayed, and not be again aroused. The nation has decided that it was not expedient to "swap horses" while crossing a raging stream, and we must, therefore, trust our safety to the old nag, in the hope that he will be able to bear us over the torrent of civil strife. We are enlisted during the entire war for the preservation of the old Union, and the old flag without a single star dimmed.
>
> "Such has been our position, despite many terrible threats of personal violence and annihilation. We are for the old constitution, too, for we believe that a State has a right to make its own laws and regulate its own affairs, provided they do not conflict with the covenant of union made by our fathers, for whom we have a great reverence, and in whose wisdom we have an abiding faith. It is far better to acquiesce temporarily in the requirements of erroneous legislation, than to place ourselves in factious opposition, which may have a tendency to produce seditious movements. The true corrective is in the popular intelligence, and the stern arguments of experience. To these the public press can always appeal.
>
> "We have now to coöperate with the President, as we have done in the past, to crush out the rebellion, and to bruise the head of the serpent which has struck its fangs at the peace and security of the Union, and we must do this in the most effective manner, without putting on any drags to impede the war-chariot of the nation in its proud swoop toward victory. We shall await with anxiety the reassembling of Congress, and the developments of future policy, which will be given in the annual Message of the President. We hope that they will be of such a character that loyal Kentucky can cheerfully indorse them. We have been earnest in our support of the Government, and we shall be glad to have it in our power to show ourselves equally earnest in the advocacy of Mr. Lincoln's administration of the Government."

Davis' New Conspiracies—Desperate Schemes to Prevent a Collapse.

The desperation of Davis and his confederates has been long enough apparent. With the last invasion of Maryland and Pennsylvania by Lee, it became perfectly clear to most men of unbiased judgment, and clear forecast, that even the semblance of offensive strength in the Confederacy had passed away forever, and that whatever show of military force was put forth thereafter resolved itself simply into a mere military parade, intended to catch the eye and tickle the fancy of foreign sympathizers. Of this character was Early's midsummer raid. It was more dignified, no doubt, than that of "Lieut. Young" at St. Alban's, because it was organized on a greater scale. It was more imposing than the successive enterprises of "Lieut. Braine" on board the Chesapeake and Roanoke, inasmuch as it was formed on a larger scale, and bore less of the common cut-throat character which may be said—without prejudice—to appertain both to the last-named maritime adventurers and to the Vermont burglaries. But Early's raid and the adventures of Braine and Young are essentially of the same character, in so far as they represent the offensive strength of rebeldom. They may effect little in the way of positive damage, but they show that the rebel power is not utterly exhausted, and proclaim to the neutral world that there is still a Confederacy with strength enough left to be mischievous. Those who are eager to hear this fact proclaimed in Europe, find it possible to put it to some financial account, and thus the swindle is kept up. None are so easily deceived as those who wish to be. The burning of a bridge or two on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; the surprise and murder of a skipper and a few common seamen on board a coasting-boat; the courageous plundering of a village bank on the extreme Northern frontier—all these are advertisements to the sympathizing world abroad that the Richmond Government still exists.

Of the same class of belligerent acts is that extraordinary project of the rebel desperadoes, to which we give prominence in another column this morning.

A scheme, of which we had some inklings several weeks ago, was arranged between the head of Davis' Navy Department and an adventurer of the name of Hogg, by which this Hogg, being duly commissioned as an officer of "the Confederate Navy," was empowered and enabled to proceed, with a party of from sixteen to twenty men, from Havana to Panama. The Hogg expedition was arranged so that the party should reach Panama about the 1st of last month; that, on arriving there, they should get on board the Pacific coasting-steamer Gautemala, belonging to the Pacific Railroad Company, and seize her at sea, and use her as a pirate to capture the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's vessels on the route between San Francisco and Panama. Arms and ammunition, it appears, had been supplied to this Confederate expedition in abundance; but fortunately the plot was discovered at Havana in time to put the authorities at Panama on their guard; and if Mr. Mallory's agents should attempt to get on board either the Gautemala or the Salvador, (which alternate with each other on the coasting route,) ample provision has been made for their reception.

These enterprises may, for the time, be regarded by neutral Powers as properly belonging to legitimate warfare, and at Panama, as at St. Thomas, at Halifax and at Montreal, those who are concerned in them may achieve before the courts of law the character of belligerents; but this arrangement can only hold good temporarily. It will soon become apparent, we take it, that instead of these raiding expeditions and maritime enterprises being subsidiary to the military organizations existing within the Confederacy, they are the main supports of the entire Confederate structure. It is coming to this so fast, that those who who are confounding piracy with privateering, will wonder that the scope and bearing and endurance of this conspiracy had not been more accurately measured by them at an earlier day.

Gen. Sherman's Campaign—Striking Characterization of Gen. Sherman.

The following notes concerning military affairs in the Southwest are from a private letter of an officer in Georgia, who is thoroughly informed concerning the matters of which he writes:

——, Georgia, Nov. 8, 1864.

Let me say in brief, as to "the situation," that no matter what the newspapers in Jeff. Davis' interest may say, their leader's wild threats and promises in his sundry speeches since the fall of Atlanta, and especially that at Columbia, S. C., on October 4, have already met with signal failure, and will culminate as he little dreams. Hood's, or rather Beauregard's late and present movement was intended to carry out those threats to cut Sherman's communications and force him to abandon all the fruits of the glorious Summer campaign "within thirty days." Those "thirty days" expired five days ago. To-day, Sherman's communications are perfect and in the busiest employment, by rail from Atlanta to the Ohio River, and by telegraph hence to all points.

Hood's temporary lodgment three or four weeks ago on this railroad cost him more men than his whole movement did Sherman; he was bloodily repulsed at Allatoona, and saved his army from destruction only by abandoning his attempt and flying westward at the rate of twenty-six miles per day, unincumbered as he is with wagons and relying on his depots and a friendly country. Sherman pursued him, as you know, into Alabama, but, for reasons which will fully appear, declined to be drawn further West; and Hood, attacking and being repulsed at Decatur, Alabama, en route, has brought up at and near Florence, Alabama, where he has crossed part of his main force—infantry and artillery, in all 30,000 strong—over the Tennessee River, between the "Colbert" and "Muscle" shoals, immediately intrenching those crossed over, and since then, according to latest indications, moving, or preparing to move, the remaining and largest part toward Corinth, Miss. Whether he intends to invade West Tennessee, or has yet abandoned that, as he abandoned his purpose and promise, first to take Chattanooga and hold the railroad, then to cross the Tennessee Railroad at Guntersville and invade Middle Tennessee, remains to be seen. Whatever he meditates is prepared for—and something more. Forrest's cavalry operations further down the Tennessee River are of no permanent or serious importance whatever, and the line of supplies via Johnsonville (thither by boat, thence by rail to Nashville,) which he interrupted, was of use at all only during low water in the Cumberland. That Beauregard should have fortified immediately on crossing the Tennessee River is proof that he understands in part the hazard of his desperate movement—how hazardous and how mistaken he will find out. The indications are of the strongest that he is completely in the dark as to Sherman's plans, which, however, completely embraces all he is doing or can do.

Gen. Sherman himself is in the highest spirits as to the future; and his future operations, now on the eve of execution, have received the full consideration and distinct approval of Lieut.-Gen. Grant. Whatever you may hear, now or hereafter, I beg you will remember this, and be assured that all the qualities which contributed to his splendid and successful Atlanta campaign—the daring, the vigor, the sagacious forethought and thoroughly careful preparations for all contingencies—have no less been called into requisition for the next, and with greater confidence as to the result. I am of course no fit critic of his military skill: but I can form an opinion of his qualities as a man. I never came in contact with a mind whose operations were so lightning-like—I can think of no other comparison—whether in vigor, clearness or rapidity; nor any man whose daring was so combined with sagacity and forethought, or whose intensity of conviction and purpose included so careful a selection of means. His confidence in his own plans and his ability to execute them is superb—it is unquestionably one element of his success; but it does not, so far as I can judge—and I detest both—imply either recklessness or arrogance. On the contrary, conclusions reached uno ultu, decisions given instantly as asked for, doubts solved as soon as raised—he has afterward explained and enforced by reasoning as simple and rigorous as a demonstration; and some of his orders in special cases heretofore, which have called forth criticism because not understood, were based upon considerations of which I did not know whether most to admire the genuine good feeling or the capital good sense. I have repeatedly recalled his letter to the Mayor of Atlanta, as presenting quite an epitome of both his character and his convictions; as well in its simple directness—its vigorous grasp of the core of the true questions involved—its utter, uncompromising, unanswerable exposure of the rebellion as a wanton and causeless conspiracy, and a gigantic crime—as in his expressed determination to make war as war, in its fullest civilized sense, and no less in the genuine kind feeling which, as an individual, he would rejoice to exercise toward those whom as rebels in arms, he knows only as enemies to his Government. It only needs to read that letter, all of it, closely, to know the man—of whom it is thoroughly characteristic. I do not wonder that his soldiers believe in him as they do; and I can assure you that never was an army in better spirits or in better sanitary condition than the —— 000 veterans, who are waiting impatiently for the order to move. Beauregard, the papers say, assures his troops that Sherman has but 35,000 men. He must know that this was a lie. Sherman has—plenty; so has Thomas.

☞ Rev. Dr. Chapin, who has not been heard as a popular lecturer for a long time, will appear in that character next Tuesday, when he will speak on "Popular Liberty."

Amusements.

Winter Garden.—To-night Mr. Clarke takes his only benefit this season, after the unequaled run for a comedian of now nearly one hundred nights. He will appear in four of his most laughable comic parts, and doubtless find in an overflowing house the fit culmination of so brilliant an engagement.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

Washington, Thursday, Nov. 17.

GEN. GRANT'S OFFICIAL REPORT.

Gen. Grant has not yet written his official report of the grand campaign from the Rapidan to the James; and has determined not to do so until he captures Petersburgh and Richmond; as until that is achieved, he will not have reached his objective, nor the campaign its logical conclusion.

GEN. BANKS.

Maj.-Gen. Banks remains still in Washington.

MR. FESSENDEN.

It may be considered certain that Mr. Fessenden will resign his Secretaryship of the Treasury to return to the Senate, to which he holds his calling and election sure.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

Washington, Thursday, Nov. 17.

CONGRATULATING THE PRESIDENT.

This afternoon, the Maryland Union State Central Committee formally called upon President Lincoln, to congratulate him on his reëlection. W. H. Purnell, their Chairman, in his address said they felt under deep obligations to him, because, by the exercise of rare discretion on his part, Maryland to-day occupied the proud position of a free State, and they desired that his future administration of the Government, as in the past, might result in the restoration of the Union, with universal freedom as its immutable basis.

The President in reply said he would not attempt to conceal his gratification with the result of the election. He had exercised his best judgment for the good of the whole country, and to have the seal of approbation placed on his course was exceedingly grateful to his feelings. He expressed his belief that the policy he had pursued was the best and the only one which could save the country. He repeated what he had said before, that he indulged in no feeling of triumph over anyone who had thought or acted differently from himself. He had no such feeling toward any living man. He thought the adoption of a Free State Constitution for Maryland was "a big thing," and a victory for right, and worth a great deal more than the part of Maryland in the election; although of the latter he thought well. In conclusion, he repeated what he had previously said, namely, that "those who differed from, and opposed us, will see that defeat was better for their own good than if they had been successful."

Some time was then spent in pleasant intercourse, the President relating several anecdotes appropriate to the occasion.

THE NEW FRACTIONAL CURRENCY.

The plates of the new fifty-cent fractional currency are nearly ready for printing. These notes will be of the same breadth as those now in circulation, but nearly twice as long. The new five cent notes will be of the same size as the old ones, while the ten and twenty-five cent notes will be graduated between the highest and lowest denominations. It is probable that a three cent note will be issued for the greater facility of making change.

ESCAPE OF A SUPPOSED SPY.

George Peterson, who was tracked from Canada to Alexandria, Va., by detectives, and on Friday committed to the Old Capitol Prison as a rebel spy and mail carrier, made his escape last night through the carelessness of the sentinels.

THE TRIAL OF CAPT. McDONALD.

The trial of Capt. Hugh A. McDonald, of Company A, First Pennsylvania Cavalry, was commenced to-day before a military commission. He was charged with uttering false and counterfeit Treasury and bank notes. The accused pleaded guilty, and made a long confession, implicating others. It is said he used his military position to circulate a very large quantity of counterfeit fractional currency in the army, and for two years had eluded the vigilance of the detectives.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

Information received from official sources shows that Juarez, the President of the Liberal party in Mexico, is at Chihuahua, the capital city of the State of that name, where Gen. Negrete is in command of an army. The Liberals also have one in Oaxaca, under Gen. Diaz, and another in Jalasco, under Gen. Arteaga. They find some support in the reported facts that Maximilian's government works badly, and that he is not generally popular, having a majority of the Church against him, and failing to secure the full confidence of the French army.

COAL IN DAKOTAH.

Extensive strata of excellent coal have been found at Fort Rice. One vein was six feet thick. This coal field extends toward the Southwest, and, it is supposed, outcrops in the slopes of the Black Hills. The existence of this great coal field, half way between the great lakes and the Rocky Mountains is a fact, the value of which cannot well be over-estimated. Aside from furnishing fuel for the navigation of the Upper Missouri River, it is a controlling element in the location of a railroad across the great plains to the Pacific.

THE REBEL CONSCRIPTION.

Information from Spottsylvania and Stafford Counties, Va., shows that rebel conscripting officers are scouring the country in all directions, and every man under sixty and boys under fifteen are impressed into the rebel service. A few days ago, a party of these rebel officers captured five men, and were conveying them to the rendezvous, when two of them, taking a favorable opportunity, drew pistols, which they had concealed on their persons, and shot the two leaders of the other party dead, which put the others to flight. Men are everywhere hiding in the woods, and endeavoring to escape to our lines. Fredericksburgh has become so depopulated, that it is estimated not more than one house out of every ten is occupied. Fuel is so scarce that the inhabitants are pulling down the vacant houses, and using them for firewood—the market price of the article being $150 per cord.

DEATHS IN HOSPITAL.

The following deaths of New York soldiers are reported to-day: Wm. F. Penn, Co. K., Tenth New-York Cavalry; E. Judd, Co. K., Tenth New-York Heavy Artillery: Fred. Ramsier, Second New-York Cavalry.

THANKSGIVING.

A Proclamation by Gov. Seymour.

Albany, Thursday, Nov. 17.

Gov. Seymour has issued the following Thanksgiving Proclamation:

By virtue of the laws of this State, I, Horatio Seymour, Governor of New-York, do hereby designate Thursday, the 24th instant, as a legal holiday and a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God, for public health, abundant harvests and other blessings during the year. While a desolating civil war fills our land with mourning, throws heavy burdens upon the industry of our country, and carries distress into the houses of our people, we should be thankful that the miseries caused by the weakness and wickedness of men are lightened by the goodness and mercy of God; that the destinies of our Nation are in His control, and that we can trust that, in due time, He will lift His chastening hand from the people of this country, who have been ungrateful of His favors and rebellious to His teachings and authority. Gratitude to God is best shown by mercy and charity to our fellow-men. I therefore exhort the citizens of this State to help the poor, to relieve the sick, and to comfort those who are in affliction. Many living in our large towns are threatened with a want of labor and the means to buy food and fuel, while the withdrawal of great numbers of able-bodied men from our State into our armies, leaves thousands of helpless persons without support. I especially invoke the public to make contributions for the comfort and assistance of the families of those who are in the service of the armies and navies of our country.

(Signed,) HORATIO SEYMOUR.
D. Willis, Private Secretary.

GENERAL NEWS.

CHOOSING ELECTORS.

On Nov. 8, the Louisiana Legislature went into joint session to choose Presidential electors. The proceedings are reported as follows in the Picayune:

Mr. Smith, Speaker pro tem. of the Senate, took the chair.

Mr. Hills moved that two electors at large for the State be first elected. Carried.

Nominations being declared in order, the names of the following gentlemen were submitted: Geo. A. Fosdick, W. T. Stocker, Chas. Leaumont, Alfred Shaw, Young Burk, C. W. Boyce, M. Sennette, R. P. Posey, John Henderson, Jr., H. C. Barlow.

Mr. Lara offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That no member of the present General Assembly shall be eligible to serve as Presidential elector for the year of 1864.

Mr. Jones moved to lay it on the table, upon which the yeas and nays were called and the motion lost, as follows: yeas 19, nays 80.

On motion of Mr. O'Connell, the resolution was then adopted, and the names of candidates belonging to the General Assembly taken from the list.

Mr. Montamat moved that no candidate be declared elected without receiving a majority of the votes cast. Carried.

The first roll-call resulted as follows: Stocker, 50; Shaw, 21; Leaumont, 19; Barlow, 3; Fosdick, 3; Henderson, 4.

There being no choice, on motion of Mr. Mitchel, all but the three receiving the highest number of votes were stricken off.

The second roll-call resulted in the election of Mr. Stocker, as follows: Stocker, 70; Leaumont, 19; Shaw, 14.

Mr. Stocker was unanimously declared the choice of the House.

The roll-call for the second elector resulted as follows: Shaw, 60; Posey, 28; Barlow, 10; Henderson, 3; Fosdick, 2; Leaumont, 1.

Mr. Alfred Shaw was therefore elected and unanimously declared the choice of the House.

New nominations were made for the remaining electors, and the following names read as candidates for the First Congressional District:

F. A. Woolfley, Howard Millspaugh, Charles Leaumont.

Mr. Woolfley was elected by the following vote: Woolfley, 86; Leaumont, 9; Millspaugh, 5.

Second Congressional District—The following nominations were made:

J. Randall Terry, C. W. Stauffer, T. G. Tracy, George A. Fosdick, E. A. Patterson, E. Heath, John Patterson.

The names of Messrs. Stauffer and Tracy were withdrawn, and the vote resulted as follows: Terry, 70; Fosdick, 11; Henderson, 11; Heath, 8; Patterson, 2.

Mr. Terry was therefore declared elected for the Second District.

Third Congressional District—The following nominations were made:

J. F. Schaffer, R. P. Posey, John Paine, Judge A. Casabat.

Mr. Duane desired the parish to which the several gentlemen belonged should be read by the Secretary, in order to see if they belonged to this district.

Mr. Hills suggested as an amendment that other offices which the gentlemen held should be named, in order to carry out the rule adopted, since the electors already chosen occupied at least one office.

There being no election, on motion of Mr. Hills, the next vote was confined to the two highest.

On the next vote Mr. Schaffer was elected, the candidates receiving, respectfully, 50 and 46 votes, and unanimously declared the choice of the body.

Fourth Congressional District—Nominations were made, and the following received: Judge J. K. Belden, 39; James Ennis, 25; J. H. C. Barlow, 27; J. B. Swain, 3; H. T. Burgess, 3. No election.

On motion of Mr. Hills, the two highest candidates were alone voted for, and the second vote resulted in the election of Judge Belden.

Fifth Congressional District—For the Fifth District, Messrs. Hamilton, Spencer and Warman were nominated, and Mr. S. G. Hamilton elected on the first roll call.

On motion, the General Assembly then adjourned.

Commenting upon this action, the Era says:

"The Legislature, yesterday, in accordance with the law enacted by itself, selected seven Electors to cast the vote of the State in the Electoral College for President and Vice-President of the United States. It was probably for the best that they should be chosen in this manner, under existing circumstances; but before another Presidential election shall occur, we hope and expect the people of Louisiana will have restored to them their ancient right of choosing their own Electors at the polls. We do not like this South Carolina style of doing the thing, as a rule, however necessary it may have been at the present time."

THE NEW SENATORS.

Messrs. SMITH and CURTIS, the newly elected United States Senators, had addressed the Legislature, but taking strong grounds in favor of Mr. LINCOLN. Mr. CUTLER said:

GENTLEMEN OF THE LEGISLATURE: You are aware that there are three distinct branches of government, as well in the State Government as in the General Government of the United States, viz.: the Executive, the Legislative and the Judiciary. I feel proud to know, as your Senator elect, that the State of Louisiana, or at least two-thirds of her entire population, have freely returned to their allegiance to the General Government, and that the good people of the State have fully organized a civil Free State Government in all its parts and ramifications, except in a few instances. They have framed a Free State Constitution. They have elected, under the Constitution and laws, a Governor, who is now acting in his official capacity. They have elected Legislators, and the General Assembly of the State is now in session, and many of the Judges of the various districts of the State been appointed and are now exercising the functions of their offices. But, my friends, I regret exceedingly much that the Executive of the State, and the General Assembly thereof, have not appointed Judges of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. This I look upon as a great error of the Executive, and hope that, inasmuch as it is now within his power, that he will immediately remedy this wrong, for all that remains to complete the civil organization of the State is the appointment of a few more Judges.

I am proud to be able to say the army and navy have aided much to the good and loyal citizens of this State in the reorganization of their civil government, and that the conduct of the army here has merited the best approbation of all loyal people within the State; and I shall take occasion in the Senate of the United State to speak of many of their meritorious acts.

My friends, in conclusion, allow me to say to you that much of the future welfare and prosperity of Louisiana depends upon the admission into Congress of your Senators and Representatives. Should Heaven frown upon us, and the good people who represent this nation in Congress turn the cold shoulder to us—refuse our admission and prevent us, for you, being heard in the council of the nation, then will the time come when Louisiana will be miserable indeed. But I for one will return with all my loyal sentiments, and will try and try again, until reason and truth shall prevail—never falter and never cease trying until Louisiana's star shall shine bright in the constellation of States in the Union.

But, my friends, I sincerely believe that there is no necessity of fearing the result. ABRAHAM LINCOLN and ANDREW JOHNSON will be elected. The State of Louisiana is now, and always has been, a State in this Union. The Senators and Representatives from the State of Louisiana to the Congress of the United States must and shall be admitted, and your humble servant will do all in his power to promote the future welfare, prosperity and happiness of the State of Louisiana. [Enthusiastic applause.]

PRIZES.

From the True Delta, Nov. 7.

The following-named vessels have been reported to the United States Prize Commissioner. We mentioned some of them yesterday, but the statement now given is more accurate and particular:

Schooner Albert Edward, 40 tons burden, JOHN PAGE, master, with a crew of six men, was captured on the 31st of October, 1864, by the U. S. gunboat Katahdin, JOHN IRWIN, U. S. N., commanding, off the coast of Texas, 85 miles south of Galveston, having run the blockade of that port, with a cargo consisting of 150 bales of cotton.

Schooner Cora Smyser, 55 tons burden, LOUIS PRESAS, master, seven men, was captured on the 28th of October, 1864, about 10 miles from the coast of Texas, and 15 east northeast of Velasco, by the U.S. steamer Sciota, J. H. GILLIS, U. S. N., commanding. She cleared from Matamoros for Nassau, with a full set of papers and a cargo consisting of blankets, rope, bagging, coffee, candles, &c.

Schooner Pancho Larispa, 66 tons burden, PEDRO RUBES, master, with a crew of eight men, was captured on the 27th of October, 1864, about five miles from the coast of Texas, and 16 miles east northeast of Velasco, by the U. S. steamer Sciota, J. H. GILLIS, U. S. N., commanding. She appears to have been bound from Matamoros to New-Orleans, with an assorted cargo.

Schooner Julia, 40 tons burden, LYMAN MAYNARD, master, with a crew of four men, was taken possession of by the U. S. steamer Penobscot, A. E. K. BENHAM, U. S. N., commanding, on the 27th October, 1864, about ten miles from the mouth of the Culcasieu River, coast of Louisiana. The Captain seems to have run his vessel out to the blockaders with the intention of delivering it up to them.

Wednesday, Nov. 16, 1864.

The great political, patriotic and moral victories won in behalf of the Union cause on the 8th of the present month, were celebrated in grand style at Ashley Hall, in this village, last evening. The spacious hall was crowded to its utmost capacity by ladies and gentlemen from the various towns in the county. The occasion was enlightened by speeches, instrumental music, songs, the firing of cannon, and a grand display of fireworks. The meeting broke up at a late hour, concluding the entertainment by the whole audience rising, and joining in singing the doxology, "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow," &c.

New Hats.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The most noticeable difference between a Republican and a Democrat now-a-days—is their hats. Yours, NEW HAT.

THE BOSTON ROBBERY CASE.—Mr. JOHN B. MANNING, of the firm of MANNING & DEFOREST, bankers and brokers, Wall-street, was arrested some weeks since, charged with complicity in the robbery of $50,000 in Treasury notes and Stocks, in Boston, on the 25th August, from BREWSTER, SWEET & Co. Mr. MANNING has been engaged in business in New-York for ten years, and has a high character for integrity, and his arrest was a matter of great astonishment to his numerous friends, who promptly came forward and gave bail for him in $75,000. An investigation of the charge was had before Justice DOWLING, when the evidence against MANNING was found to consist of the oaths of three barkeepers, who swore that on Oct. 8 a man passed two of the stolen notes on them. They swore, also, that MANNING was the man. On cross-examination, CORWIN, one of the barkeepers, admitted that he was determined to get the bill he took off on some one. Mr. MANNING's defence was very simple. He proved, by witnesses of the highest respectability, that he was not in Boston on the day of the robbery, and that at the hours in which the barkeepers swore they received the bills he was asleep on a sofa in his house in Allen-street. After a very thorough and searching investigation, Justice DOWLING discharged Mr. MANNING, deciding that there was no probable cause for his detention, and reflecting severely on the recklessness with which the complainants swore to his identity. Persons cannot be too cautious on such occasions, for, as in this instance, a respectable and honest man may be subjected to grievous wrong by the publicity attending his arrest on such a charge, caused by the too great earnestness with which persons who incautiously take stolen bills try to push the loss off their own shoulders. Several other persons took some of the stolen bills, but they swore that while Mr. MANNING looked like the man who passed them he was not the person. As we published the fact of Mr. MANNING's arrest, we desire to give the same publicity to his honorable discharge.

MOTH AND FRECKLE LOTION.

Chloasma, or Moth Patches, Lentigo or Freckles, blemishes in the face called moth, are very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, as the discolored spots on the face show more strongly on blondes than brunettes; but they contribute greatly in marring the beauty on either; and anything that will effectually remove them without injuring the skin in texture or color, would be considered a great achievement in medical science. Dr. B. C. PERRY, who has made diseases of the skin a specialty, has discovered an infallible remedy for the removal of moth, freckles and other discolorations from the face without injuring the skin in texture or color. CONVENTION OF THOSE INTERESTED IN Fruit Culture and Rural Homes, to be held at Iona Island, on the 22d and 23d of November.—The objects to be promoted by the convention have been thought worthy of earnest attention by all to whom the subject has been mentioned, and the time chosen for holding it has also been thought, after full consideration, to be the most favorable for full and free deliberation upon all matters connected with fruit culture, and more especially in connection with the garden and rural homes.

As the excellence of our best fruits becomes more extensively known, and their importance to health and enjoyment becomes better understood, the desire to know how to obtain them with certainty and in perfection arises; but a satisfactory answer is not often at hand.

As a general rule, in the country, the proprietor must at least be his own general superintendent; but he does not know where to obtain the requisite knowledge. A lecture with field demonstrations will in one hour teach more practical knowledge of the way to do it, than can be obtained by any amount of study. After having witnessed the demonstration on the growing tree in connection with an explanatory lecture, books, if they are what they should be, become instinct with life, and their study relieved of all obscurity, becomes a pleasure and a great advantage.

The fruit-garden, although very important, is but one of the constituents of the rural home. The flower-garden and shrubbery, the house, also, and its attendant structures, all require knowledge and attention to afford the full measure of satisfaction. Rural Architecture and Landscape Gardening will also be discussed.

These subjects are of equal interest to both sexes, but heretofore the discussion has not been under arrangements suitable for the general attendance of ladies.

In the present instance the general attendance of ladies is desired, and very complete arrangements have been made for their comfort and enjoyment.

A fine, new, first-class, sea-going steamer, built expressly for safety and comfort, has been chartered for the occasion and furnished with attendants. There are seventy large state-rooms for gentlemen with their wives, and also for families; and also state-rooms exclusively for ladies. There are five hundred berths for gentlemen, all with new and clean bedding. The spacious saloons, with very high ceilings, are admirably fitted for the concerts and amusements that will take place during the passages, and between and after the discussions. The proprietors of the boat have generously proposed to furnish instrumental music by a celebrated band.

A select choir of vocalists will be led by Mr. J. Zundel, organist of Plymouth Church, the excellence of whose performances needs no further commendation than his name as leader. He has prepared some original compositions for the occasion. Solos and duets will be given by distinguished vocalists of both sexes, who have generously volunteered for the occasion.

The steamer will leave some dock hereafter to be designated on the east side of the city at 9 A. M. TUESDAY, the 22d. It will touch at Brooklyn, at 9½, to receive passengers there, and at the foot of Warren-st., North River, to receive passengers, at 10, and then proceed directly to the island.

Tickets for passage each way, $1; tickets for the excursion, including five meals and berth, $5.

The eating department is to be conducted by one of the best caterers in the city.

The committee would state that after having made full arrangements with the proprietors of the steamer, they feel that the responsibility on their part ceases, but they do not fear that in all that pertains to the steamer and its arrangements anything will be found wanting. The proprietors with their wives will join the excursion. In all of the arrangements they have manifested a spirit of fairness and liberality, with an enthusiastic determination to give full satisfaction.

There will be many eminent speakers present beside those already announced, but a full programme cannot be published until the day before the performance. The Committee only regret that there will not be sufficient time for all of these to give as full an exhibition of their ability as is very desirable. Some of the discourses will be completed on another occasion.

The Committee would also state that they accepted the offer of Dr. C. W. Grant for the place of holding the convention, because it offered peculiar facilities for accomplishing its object, (see circular,) but that they determined from the beginning to avoid connecting the interests of the convention in the least degree with any private or individual interests, and they are not conscious of having failed in their purpose.

NEW-YORK CITY, Nov. 8, 1864.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE N. Y. TIMES:

DEAR SIR: We beg leave, through the medium of your excellent paper, to respectfully invite the attention of physicians and others interested, to the principles and modus operandi governing us in the treatment of Catarrhal diseases by what we are pleased to term Medical Hydrokonia. We would also, in justice to ourself and the public as well, in answer to numerous inquiries by letter and otherwise, take this occasion to state that we have no relation or interest whatever with any other person or persons in this city or elsewhere, except our associate, Dr. A. H. Smedley, of Boston, who advertise to cure Catarrh; nor are we in any sense accountable for the evil consequences resulting at the hands of the numerous medical charlatans and wandering Jews traveling about the country, each heralding his whereabouts with newspaper certificates of catarrh cures, which every intelligent person well knows to be the one distinguishing feature of quackery wherever seen, and a species of clap-trap to which no educated physician ever stoops.

In the early part of the year 1854, our attention was first awakened to the alarming prevalence of Catarrhal Disease in this country, at which time no physician in America had either written upon the disease to any extent, or treated it as a specialty. During the year following, after a most thorough research, and consultation upon the subject with many eminent medical authors, both at home and abroad, in the Autumn of 1855, we published the first series of articles upon the causes and consequences of Catarrh, and subsequently delivered a series of public lectures upon the same subject.

During the last eight years, as the Principal of an institution devoted to the exclusive treatment of Catarrh and its complications, the happy success it has been our good fortune to achieve in this department of medical practice has given rise to the most unblushing quackery and imposition on the part of numerous hitherto unheard-of individuals, whose swindling operations upon an over-credulous public are equaled only by the wholesale ignorance and falsehood displayed in their advertisements and newspaper certificates of Catarrh cures.

Some of these experimentive imitators claim to have been associated with us in practice, others to practice the method employed by us, while others pretend to new and wonderful discoveries, and play upon the gullibility of diseased humanity by the "exhibition" of gilt and tinseled paraphernalia, and the practice of medicine by machinery. Truly this is a wonderful age, and that a remarkable achievement which, blending science with mechanics, prolongs your life "fifteen years" in ten minutes," for only "five hundred dollars!"

And then, again, what a blessing to people throughout the country, whose home duties forbid their visiting the city, that within the last few years, St. Mark's-place (formerly a part of New-York City) has been extended from Maine to the Mississippi, thus affording opportunity for those who suffer from Catarrh to pay from "fifty" to "three hundred dollars" for a "curiously-constructed" Nasal Syringe, with method of self-doctoring to match. But lest some one should think our picture overdrawn, attention is invited to the proof in our hands and evidence at our command.

In behalf of that system of theory and practice, we have seen signally successful in hundreds of cases when and where all other known means and methods have totally failed; it is not that we claim superior knowledge in any combination of remedies, but rather IN THE MODE OF APPLICATION. Not by snuffing, injecting nor inhaling, but by a method at once original, safe and simple, and alike commendatory to the confidence of practitioner and patient.

The term Hydrokonia is a word of our own coinage, used to signify a system or combination of specific means and remedies adapted to the local and constitutional treatment of catarrh and its complications, and bears no relation whatever to any other method ever attempted for the treatment of that alarmingly prevalent and dangerous disease. The means employed in this practice are also of our own design and used only by ourself and associate, Dr. A. H. Smedley, of Boston, all false pretence and imitative experiment to the contrary notwithstanding.

To the many whose past experience proves the utter fallacy of treating Catarrh by drenching the throat and nasal passages with astringent powders and caustic solutions, you are invited to examine the claim of the practice in question, and thereafter judge of its merits for yourselves. Respectfully,

DR. S. CLESSON PRATT,

HARPER & BROTHERS, NEW-YORK,
PUBLISH THIS DAY:
UNDER THE BAN.
(LE MAUDIT,)
A Novel,
Translated from the French of M. l'Abbe * * * 8vo, Cloth, $1 75; Paper, $1 25.

While we read and wondered, we also applauded the nameless Abbé * * *. His book obtains a daily increasing celebrity.—Edinburgh Review.

The accurate and minute delineations of religious life, lay and sacerdotal, both in the Capital and the Provinces of the Empire, at the present moment, will necessarily cause the work to be read in this country with peculiar avidity...... The individual sufferings of the hero and heroine—attributable to the machinations of the Brotherhood of Loyola—are delineated with a painful fidelity and verisimilitude which have been rarely surpassed in productions of this class...... The work is one of much talent and interest.—London Review.

A successful book. The writer evidently writes because he has thoroughly at heart the subject of which he treats.—Saturday Review.

THIS COMPANY IS FORMED FOR THE PURPOSE of Purchasing, Working, Selling and Leasing Mining Lands and Rights, in the British Provinces and neighboring localities.

It is now the owner of nearly fifteen thousand acres of the richest gold lands of the CHAUDIERE gold district of Canada, which have been selected with great care, and after abundant evidence of their richness in gold and other precious metals. They contain nearly SEVENTY MILES of river frontage upon streams admirably adapted to the most productive and economical mining.

The company has been organized after the most thorough examination of the lands and their values, and the trustees confidently believe their productiveness, which has been fully tested, prove them equal, if not superior, to the richest placers of California, both in gold-bearing quartz lodes and alluvial deposits. They have on hand and on exhibition gold enough recently mined upon their own property to fully establish the value of their stock.

The company is prepared to treat upon favorable terms with persons desiring to lease or purchase mining rights.

A limited number of shares of the capital stock may be subscribed for until further notice, at the office of

The Trustees unhesitatingly invite the attention of the public to the RECIPROCITY MINING COMPANY, as possessing a value fully equal to that of any Mining Company hitherto organized.

ADVICE TO MARRIED LADIES, who require a safe and certain remedy for removing obstructions, from whatever cause. Can rely upon the celebrated INFALLIBLE FRENCH FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS. No. 1, price $1 a box, to restore the monthly sickness in forty-eight hours, if of short standing; but obstinate cases, of long standing, may require No. 2, which are four degrees stronger than No. 1, and can never fail, are safe and healthy, price $5 a box. Sold at No. 127½ Liberty-st., and 162 Chambers-st., or sent by mail, with full instructions; address Box 2,359 N. Y. P. O.

DR. COOPER, NO. 14 DUANE-ST., MAY BE confidently consulted on all diseases of a private nature. A practice of 30 years, devoted to the treatment and cure of Syphilitic, Mercurial and diseases of a delicate nature, enables Dr. C. to make speedy and permanent cures, no matter of how long standing the case may be. Strictures of the urethra and seminal weakness, brought on by a secret habit, effectually cured. The victims of misplaced confidence, who have been misled by quack advertisements, can call on Dr. C. with the certainty of being radically cured or no charge made.

DR. POWERS' PERIODICAL DROPS are designed for both married and single ladies, and are the very best thing known for the purpose, as they will bring on the monthly sickness in case of obstruction from any cause, and after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. Expressly for obstinate cases. Warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. ☞ Beware of imitations! Purchase directly of Dr. POWERS, 61 Franklin-st., N. Y.

HUNDREDS ARE RUINED BEYOND REDEMPTION in this life by not calling on Dr. HUNTER at first; he has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has cured no less than fifty thousand cases. His remedies are mild and there is no interruption to business or change of diet. Dr. Hunter is in constant attendance from 8 in the morning till 9 at night, at his old office, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City, since 1834. Charges moderate and a cure guaranteed. Separate rooms, so that the patient sees no one but the Doctor himself. His wonderful medical discovery known as Dr. Hunter's Red Drops, cures certain diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, and possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. One dollar will secure by return mail his medical work, 300 pages, 40 colored pictures. Worth all the others put together.

MUSICAL.

CHICKERING & SONS
MANUFACTURERS OF GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT PIANO-FORTES, No. 652 BROADWAY.—The superiority of these instruments has of late been amply demonstrated by the voluntary testimony of the foremost artists of the day, who claim for them excellencies of tone and workmanship hitherto unobtained by any other makers.

Mr. GOTTSCHALK'S constant use of the NEW SCALE CHICKERING GRAND PIANO-FORTES has severely tested their musical qualities, and resulted in establishing the justice of the very flattering estimation in which they are held.

Messrs. CHICKERING & SONS are Sole Agents for the celebrated Alexandre Organs for the United States.

STEINWAY & SON
GOLD MEDAL GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS are now considered the best in Europe as well as this country, having received the first Prize Medal at the World's Exhibition in London, 1862.

The principal reason why the Steinway Pianos are superior to all others, is, that the firm is composed of five practical pianoforte makers, (father and four sons,) who invent all their own improvements, and under whose personal supervision every part of the instrument is manufactured. Warerooms, Nos. 71 and 73 East 14th-st., between Union-square and Irving-place, New-York.

THE WEBER PIANO-FORTE
Is admitted the best Piano-forte made, because the maker, beside being a practical mechanic of long experience, is also a thorough musician, thus combining advantages possessed by no other manufacturer in the United States. Such is the testimony of S. B. Mills, Robert Heller, Geo. F. Bristow, Wm. Mason, C. Jerome Hopkins, Charles Fradel, Max Maretzek, Carl Anschutz, John Zundle, Maurice Strakosch, Giovani Sconcia, and every good musician in the United States. All musical ears at once admit their great superiority. Warerooms No. 155 West Broadway, near Canal-st.

CUMMINGS & JENNINGS,

HAINES BROTHERS.
No. 758 Broadway, up stairs.

MASON & HAMLIN RESPECTFULLY announce that they have now completed the occupation of their greatly enlarged factory, and effected other arrangements for the large increase of their manufacturing facilities. They therefore confidently expect to be able henceforward to supply orders for their CABINET ORGANS promptly, without that inconvenient delay to which purchasers have been subjected, from the fact that for more than a year past they have been continually several hundred instruments behind orders. An assortment of styles from $110 to $600 each may be found at their New-York warerooms, No. 7 Mercer-st.

PIANOS.—FIVE ROSEWOOD PIANOS AT DEcided bargains; one parlor grand, made by Chickering, and four others of good city makers. Can be seen at Colton's, No. 724 Broadway. Also, three Plimpton's bedsteads.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE LATE FORGERIES.

Further Particulars—Cross-Examination of the Accomplice, Coughlin—Interesting Testimony as to the Operations of the Gang.

The investigation in the case of MICHAEL O'BRIEN, WALTER PATTERSON, IRA GARADIER, alias Garside, and GEORGE F. COUGHLIN, arrested on the charge of having been extensively engaged in forging a large number of checks in this city and elsewhere within the last few months, was continued yesterday afternoon at the Tombs, before Justice DOWING. The particulars of the case, so far as they were then developed, were published in the TIMES of Thursday. COUGHLIN, the accomplice who turned states evidence, was cross-examined at great length by the counsel for the prisoners, Mr. CHAS. S. SPENCER. All the material part of his testimony we give below. From this will be seen something of the manner in which these bold, bad men have been enabled to so extensively swindle the New-York and other banks by means of forged checks. ORLANDO L. STEWART, Esq., the Assistant District-Attorney, appeared as counsel on behalf of the prosecution.

George F. Coughlin, cross-examined—Q.—Have you ever been engaged in any other swindling transaction? A.—I decline to answer that question.

Q.—Upon what grounds do you decline answering that question? A.—I decline answering because I may criminate myself.

Q.—Where are the three remaining 7-30 Treasury notes which are undisposed of? A.—Officer Farley has them; he, I think, did not have them yesterday; I gave Mr. Farley the key to my trunk, at home, where the Treasury notes were, yesterday, after I had been examined; did not give him any writing of any kind; I was at the House of Detention when I gave him the keys; told Farley the Treasury notes were in the trunk, and I wanted him to get them, and he complied with my request; I was with two detectives in a private room; a reporter was present; their conversation was directed to him; I don't remember whispering with the two detectives in the private room; I am twenty-three years of age; Walter Patterson was the first of these defendants I became acquainted with; saw him for the first time three years ago last Summer, at Jamesport, L. I.; I was keeping store at that place; was conducting the business, and lived there; he came into my place, and represented himself as a man of business; he was talking about going into business there, and made a proposition to me; up to that time I had never been arrested; I was not cognizant of an arson or counterfeiting case at that time; the store which I had charge of was larger than I required, and the up-stairs portion was not used; Mr. Patterson, who represented himself as H. Burdick, proposed that we should buy grain and ship it to New-York; he said that in doing so we should require some one in New-York to consign the grain to, and requested me to write to Messrs. Hecker & Brothers; he drew off the letter for me to write; I wrote, and he said he would write to the Cashier of the Bank of Sag Harbor, which it would be necessary for us to draw upon in this case; after the letters had been mailed, he said he would ship a load or two of grain, then we would make a thousand dollars or two, and leave; the letters were mailed, but the mail had not gone when this was told me; I took my letter from the mail, and that ended the matter; I did not again see Patterson, who called himself Burdick, until a year ago; continued at my store two years after the conversation above described; after obtaining employment at Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co.'s store, Broadway and Tenth-street, met Patterson; I remained there until a year ago last August; I then entered the employ of Messrs. Lathrop, Ludington & Co., Park-place, and there remained until last August; while in their employ I accidentally met Patterson the second time, in Hudson-street; made no proposition to him on that occasion.

Q.—Did you not say to Patterson that you were employed at a large commercial house, that you did the running to the bank, and that you had charge, from time to time, of large sums of money, and ask him to join with you, and take a large amount of money, and leave? A.—No, Sir, nothing of the kind.

Q.—What was said? A.—He asked me where I was, and I told him; he then inquired where I had been, and the amount of my salary, and if I could live on that salary; I told him that I could make out to get along, hoping to get better pay when my year was up; he said he always had plenty of money, and did not work for it, because he was smart in business; I said I was out looking for a boarding-house, and that I must return to the store; I saw Patterson that same night by appointment, at the Hone House; he said he would like to see me, and I did not know for what purpose; a man came up who proved to be Spencer Pettus; I did not know him, never saw him before, nor he me, to my knowledge; he asked if my name was Coughlin, and I said "Yes;" he said there was a man by the name of Burdick outside, who wanted to see me; I did not know what the business was; from the representations made I believed it was honorable; I immediately went out and met Burdick, and we all three went to a lager-bier saloon in Third-avenue; up to that time I had no idea that there was anything extraordinary; nothing was said when we got in there; we had a glass of lager-bier; Burdick asked me if I would like to go to Chicago with him; he said I would not see him again after that night; we then parted; that is all that happened; I went home; it was about 9 o'clock; no appointment was made for a future interview; I did not know that I should ever meet him again; next day, at ten o'clock I was in the store of Messrs. Lathrop & Co.; [the paper, with Lathrop, Ludington & Co.'s heading (exhibit A,) I furnished;] a note came addressed to me, signed "H. Burdick;" the note is destroyed I believe: he wanted me to see him that evening at the larger-bier saloon the night before; the note did not state what for; I found Burdick and he said he was going west to make money; that he was going to Chicago, and wanted me as clerk; I declined; we walked up Third avenue, and talked about making money in various ways; he said he had an account in the Second National Bank, where he had a considerable sum of money, and that he intended to make a large sum from the bank; when we arrived at the intersection of Fourteenth-street and Third-avenue, I left him and went home; no proposition was made that I help make money out of any bank; after that I saw him often; he sent another note to the store, wanting me to meet him at the intersection of Twenty-third street and Broadway, at 10 o'clock; I went; I did not know what for; there I met him; he wanted me to deposit a check in the Second National Bank; I did not know whether it was a forged check or not; this was a little more than a year ago; I told him I knew nothing about it; I did not deposit the check in the bank; told him I would rather not do it; we stood there some time, and he insisted on my doing it, and told me it was all right; I did not know whether to believe it or not; I don't remember whose check it was; don't remember the amount; I did not see it; he did not tell me; I told him I was away from the store without leave, and must hurry back; I did not take the check with me; he called at my house the same night, or a night or two after; he said he had ways of making money; showed me another check; I think it was on the Merchants' Bank of this city, for $9,000; I don't remember whose check it purported to be; it was certified; I do not know whether the other check was certified or not; I don't remember what firm it was on; he took it in his hands and said that he could get the money in any bank; this was after he came out of the house; he wanted me to go over to Colgate's (a broker), to satisfy myself that the check was good; he pretended to me that the check was good; I thought it good; I did not take the check to Colgate's; I never saw it afterward, and never had any of its proceeds; it was at that time, or a little before, that he gave me a little money—five dollars or so; I met him a few days after; in the meantime I saw nothing of Pettus.

Q.—If you thought the check was good, why did you not take it to the bank? A.—I suppose I had a reason, but don't remember now; I met him afterward, at some place near my house; the next time I met him he questioned me as to what I did at the store, where I was—whether I went to the brokers or banks; he asked me what amounts I took out; he said he was a little short of money at present, and wanted me, when I was sent to the brokers with a large amount of money, to leave half and he would take half; that he would get me a place to stay, or if I wanted to leave the city he would get me out, so that no one would find me; I told him that my character was good, and although I was getting a small salary I thought it better to be honest, and before long I would have a better situation; he then said, "If you don't want to do that, when you go to the banks with a large deposit, I will take out one of the checks and put it in one of mine;" I did not agree to any of these propositions; he said the checks he had were stamped by the cashier; that the cashier was acquainted with him, and that he stamped them for him; I had no stamps for certificates at my house on Long Island; I never saw any but once; I have realized from these parties some $500 or $600, beside the $5,000 in Treasury notes here spoken of; it is not quite a year since I became aware that Burdick was doing wrong.

Q.—State the circumstances under which you made that discovery? A.—I decline to answer on the same grounds as before.

Q.—Did you, while in the employ of Lathrop, Ludington & Co., in the vicinity of a year ago, take any part in the sale of goods from their store for which a check, known by you to be forged and counterfeited, for the sum of $5,000, was received and a large amount of change was given as well as the goods? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you know of any such transaction, become a recipient of a part of the money the firm was defrauded of by means of the forged check? A.—There never was any money given to me; Burdick, after the 1st of January, gave me some money, I don't know what for.

Q.—On account of that transaction? A.—I decline to answer, on the same grounds as before.

Q.—What amount? A.—Something like $100; that's more money than I ever had at a time of my own; we had a salesman by the name of Bryan; Burdick asked me if we had a man by the name of Bryan: he asked me the name of the biggest salesman, and I told him O'Brien; he asked me the names of the biggest buyers, and I told him the names of some.

Q.—Was there a check passed of between $4,000 and $5,000, that was fraudulent, on Lathrop, Ludington & Co., when you were in their employ, or a fraudulent check of any amount, or did you hear that a fraudulent check was passed on the firm? A.—I decline to answer, on the same grounds as before.

Q.—When did you the first time become acquainted with Ira Garadier? A.—I first saw him about two months ago; that was the first knowledge I ever had that he was connected with swindling transactions; I first saw him at a house in Lafayette-place; I first saw O'Brien the latter part of this last Summer; saw him on Hudson-street; I left the employ of Lathrop, Ludington & Co. last Summer; I left under the influence of Patterson; I would have been there now but for the request and influence of Patterson and the smallness of my salary; I voluntarily left.

Q.—How much did you pay for the watch and chain you bought a few days after you left? A.—I decline to answer, on the same grounds as before.

Q.—Where did you get it? A.—I bought it of a man by the name of Shuctman.

Q.—When, for the first time, was anything said or done with reference to the swindle of the Bank of Commerce? A.—On the first day the first note was sent.

Here, at a late hour, the further hearing was postponed to 10 o'clock this morning.

The committee who have undertaken to provide a Thanksgiving dinner for the soldiers and sailors are meeting with great encouragement on all hands. Money and contributions in kind flow in upon them, but they still have need of more. They now ask, especially, that all, whether hotel or restaurant keepers, bakers or private individuals, who are willing to receive from them twenty or more turkeys or chickens, and return them cooked before Sunday, will send their names to the committee, at Getty's Building, Trinity-place, or to JAMES KELLY, Post-office.

The following-named bakers and hotel-keepers have undertaken to cook and pack the number of turkeys and chickens stated for the Thanksgiving dinner for the soldiers and sailors. The turkeys and chickens are furnished them by the committee, who pay for packing. GENERAL CITY NEWS.

A HORTICULTURAL CONVENTION.—A Convention of Fruit Cultivators and others will be held at Iona Island, the residence of Dr. C. W. GRANT, the celebrated grape-grower, near Peekskill, on the 22d and 23d inst. A number of distinguished speakers and well-known horticulturists have accepted invitations to be present and address the Convention, such as the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Donald G. Mitchel, Horace Greeley, Dr. Loring, Dr. Noyes, P. Barry, Dr. Ward, Prof. Huntsman, Dr. Trimble, R. G. Pardee, P. B. Mead, and others. Wm. C. Bryant, Esq., is expected to preside. There will be present on the occasion some of our most eminent horticulturists, who will take part in the discussions, and thus give them a great practical value. A committee has been appointed to make all needful arrangements. The proceedings will occupy the afternoon and evening of the 22d, and part of the 23d. Iona Island is nearly opposite Peekskill, on the Hudson River. The principal trains arrive at Peekskill at 9 A. M. and 12 M., at which time boats will be at the dock to convey passengers to and from the Island, without charge.

RECRUITING IN BROOKLYN.—Recruiting has become more brisk since the election, an average of about twelve men per day being passed at the Provost-Marshal's office of the Third District. At the office of the Marshal of the Second District some seventy men have been recruited since Monday last. There are now placed to the credit of Kings County, to count upon any call that may be made, very nearly five hundred men. A bounty of $300 is still paid by the County for three years' men, which, with different amounts made up by principals, reaches from $400 to $600 for each substitute. The authorities believe that they can meet any future demands which may be made without resorting to a draft.

OPENING OF THE NEW ROOM OF THE PRODUCE EXCHANGE.—Yesterday the Produce Exchange extension, although not yet quite completed, was opened for the transaction of business. The room is a very large one, embracing the full length and width of the building, and is most conveniently fitted up for the accommodation of the brokers who make the Exchange their headquarters. Several large tables and desks, and some newspaper files, placed around the columns in the Exchange, will prove of great convenience to the merchants.

A MILITARY INSTITUTION.—Col. DI CESNOLA, who served three years as Commander of the Fourth New-York Cavalry, one of the most efficient organizations of that arm which has taken the field, has determined to reopen his classes in this city for the instruction of our young men in all the branches of military science. The Colonel needs no more emphatic indorsement of his ability for the work than the record he made for himself while fighting for his adopted country.

PATRIOTIC WARD SCHOOL.—The pupils of Ward School No. 11, in Seventeenth Ward, yesterday contributed their pocket money to the Soldiers' Thanksgiving Fund, to the amount of $141 57. This school has on several occasions given liberally to various soldiers' charities. The Principal is Mr. ALONZO HOPPER.

THE CASE OF COL. MAIDHOFF.—It is understood that Col. MAIDHOFF, of the Eleventh Regiment New-York State Militia, recently tried by court-martial on a charge of disobeying the orders of Major-Gen. SANDFORD in refusing to lead his command to Washington, will appeal to the Governor for a reversal of the decision of the court.

WORKING WOMEN'S PROTECTIVE UNION.—The Superintendent of this association desires to call the attention of the public to the fact that employers can be furnished with operatives in their various trades and callings, free of charge, by applying at the Union, No. 13 Chambers-street.

Obituary.

—Intelligence has been received in New-Haven of the death, by yellow fever, a few weeks since, of THEODORE WOOLSEY TWINING, Acting-Assistant-Paymaster on the United States bark Roebuck, which was stationed at the time at Tampa Bay, Fla. Mr. TWINING was born at West Point, Sept. 4, 1825, and was a son of Mr. A. C. TWINING, formerly a Professor in the United States Military Academy. In consequence of his father's subsequent connection with Middlebury College, Vermont, he spent his earlier years in that place. Subsequently the family removed to New-Haven, and young TWINING graduated at Yale College in 1858. He spent two years after graduation in miscellaneous pursuits, and in 1860 entered the Law School at New-Haven. After completing his course of study there, he was admitted to the Bar in 1862, but, instead of taking up the practice of his profession, he felt it to be his duty to enter the service of his country, and he therefore enlisted in the New-York Thirty-seventh Regiment, and served with it during a part of the time of its encampment at Baltimore. Subsequently, he received the appointment of Acting-Assistant-Paymaster in the navy, and for nearly twelve months served on the United States ship Kensington, whence he was transferred to the bark Roebuck, on board of which he died.

While in college, and subsequently, Mr. TWINING made numerous friends, and his classmates, both in Yale and the Law School, will be greatly grieved at the announcement of his death.

DANVILLE, Penn., June 2, 1862.
DR. WM. R. GREGG—Dear Sir: In February, 1861, I was afflicted with sugar diabetes, and for five months I passed more than two gallons of water in twenty-four hours. I was obliged to get up as often as ten or twelve times during the night, and in the five months I lost about fifty pounds in weight. During the month of July 1861, I procured two bottles of Constitution Water, and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured, soon after regaining my usual good health. Yours truly,
J. V. L. DEWITT.

PETROLEUM
STOCKS.
RICHARDS KINGSLAND,
No. 38 Pine-st., New-York.,
offers the following desirable Stocks this day, of the RATHBONE PETROLEUM COMPANY, 7,000 shares at the original subscription price of one dollar per share, par value three dollars per share. This Company confidently expect to be able, early in the ensuing year, to commence, and to continue thereafter regularly, the payment of large monthly dividends on the par value of the stock, from the products of the wells already sunk on their property; and it is believed that no Company has an interest in oil territory of equal value and promise in any location, that can be had at so low a rate as that now offered by the Company.
Also, of the CHERRY RUN PETROLEUM COMPANY, 5,000 shares; can be had, if applied for at once, at subscription price, one dollar per share, par value two dollars. The present production of oil in this Company will pay over three per cent. per month upon the subscription price, with a continual increase of oil.
Also, of the OIL CREEK PETROLEUM COMPANY, 1,200 shares, at ten dollars per share, par value twenty dollars. This Company has paid forty thousand dollars in dividends for the past three months, or, to say, eight per cent. on investment.
To capitalists the above Companies offer the best investments now on the market.
Prospectus and full particulars can be had at my office.
I have always on hand the best dividend-paying and desirable stocks as are most sought for in this market; some paying as high as eight and ten per cent. per month.

Cures like magic all Diseases that originate in a DISORDERED STOMACH OR BOWELS.

The following is from the Rev. William Stevens:
Messrs. Editors of the Journal and Courier:
Having been cured of dyspepsia through the generosity of Mr. Coe, and as this, my grateful acknowledgment, (is the only remuneration he appeared willing to receive (in view of his promise,) please allow my statement a place in your columns.
For the last ten years, I have been afflicted with dyspepsia—at times so bad, that what I ate at night would distress me the next morning, and in the same way from morning until night, and I have often gone without my meals, through fear. It was while suffering in this manner that I took the first dose of COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE. It stopped my pain in one minute. So great was my confidence in it, and so strong my appetite, that I went home and ate a full meal of ham and eggs, and took a few drops of the cure, and enjoyed it better than any meal I have eaten in ten years. I have taken only one bottle, and can now eat anything I please without pain. It is something I cannot explain, but I am as confident that I am cured, as was he who said, "One thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see."
WILLIAM STEVENS.
From the Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Madison, Conn.
I have used COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE in my family, and can willingly testify to its value as a medicine.

TO THE LADIES OF AMERICA:
LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,
LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,
THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY,
THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY,
Cure all complaints incident to the sex, and remove all obstructions of nature, from whatever cause, producing health, vigor and strength.
LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS are better than all pills, powders and nostrums; being a fluid preparation, their action is direct and positive, and it needs nothing but good common sense to see and understand the reason why they cure all those ills to which the female system is subjected, with dispatch and a degree of certainty which nothing but a scientifically compounded fluid preparation could reach. They are, in the most obstinate cases,
RELIABLE, AND SURE TO DO GOOD,
RELIABLE, AND SURE TO DO GOOD,
AND CANNOT DO HARM
AND CANNOT DO HARM
to the most delicate constitutions.
LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS will certainly produce the regular return of nature, if taken a day or two before the expected period, and it is a maxim in the profession, that prevention is better than cure.
LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS have been used by over twenty-five thousand ladies, within the past six months, and the testimony of all is, "It surely cures."
CAUTION!! CAUTION!!!
Bear in mind that I guarantee my DROPS TO CURE Suppression of the Menses, from whatever cause, though care should be taken to ascertain if pregnancy be the cause, as these DROPS would be sure to produce miscarriage, if taken whilst in that situation, and all are cautioned against using them, as I wish it distinctly understood that I do not hold myself responsible when used under such circumstances.
TO MARRIED LADIES
They are peculiarly adapted, as they bring the monthly period with such perfect regularity.
If you wish relief take no other.
Sent by mail or express to any part of the world. The Trade are now generally selling them at $1 25 per bottle; but if sent by mail it requires 25 cents additional to prepay postage with.
